

NEW DIVORCE BILL

Kansas City Members of House Framing Measure to Correct Present Evils.

WILL CREATE A NEW COURT

Domestic Relations to be Combined With Juvenile Department of the Circuit Bench.

A bill calling for the creation of a court of domestic relations with powers not precedent in any similar court is to be presented to the Missouri Legislature when it meets in January.

John H. Taylor, a member of the legislature from Kansas City, is to present the bill. He has begun the framing of the bill. Frank Wilkinson, another member of the legislature from Kansas City, also is interested in the proposed bill.

A few of the suggestions for such a bill which have been given by W. W. Wright, divorce proctor, are:

The juvenile and domestic relations courts should be combined under one judge.

The domestic relations judge should have criminal jurisdiction in order to enforce all orders of the court.

The investigating corps should be similar to one now in use in the juvenile court work under Dr. E. L. Mathias and they should be combined.

The law should affect only Jackson County and St. Louis, as aggravated divorce conditions do not affect the country districts.

All divorce applications should be made direct in the domestic relations court.

The domestic relations and juvenile courts should be made permanent in one division of the circuit courts so that eventually men will be candidates for that court alone.

A definite period of time should elapse after the filing of a divorce petition before it is heard and a time as long again should pass before the final separation should be granted.

All children of divorced parents should be made wards of the juvenile court merely for the sake of protecting them in case the parents fail to do so. Power should be given the court to enforce by jail sentence, if necessary, the payment of alimony to former wives and children. More than 70 per cent of the wards of the juvenile court now are children of divorced parents.

U.—Plans are being drawn for two dormitories for Episcopalian students at the University of Missouri—one to accommodate forty men students and a smaller building for twenty women. He was born at Bowling Green, Ky., in 1810, and lived in Polk county sixty years. Three of eleven children survive him. Potter was too old to serve in either army in the Civil War.

INSURANCE RATES TOO HIGH

State Commission Recommends Teaching Fire Prevention Measures in Public Schools of Missouri.

A law requiring the teaching of fire prevention in the public schools at least two hours each week is one of the recommendations to the legislature of the commission appointed by Governor Major to recommend a revision of the fire insurance laws. The report of the commission has been sent to the governor at Jefferson City.

The commission found, its report says, that a great deal of the present trouble over fire insurance rates in Missouri is due primarily to the excessive fire loss. It says that a big percentage of the fires that now occur could be prevented by a campaign of education along the lines of prevention. It says the place to start that campaign is with the school children.

The commission also will recommend that the office of fire marshal be created, who shall see that fire rules and regulations, especially in the cities, are rigidly enforced.

The commission goes extensively into the question of rate making. It will prepare a bill outlining its ideas on that subject. It also will have a bill putting reciprocal companies under supervision of the state insurance department.

A new proposal of the commission is for the state superintendent of insurance to have supervision over the character of fire agents. It says that much trouble is occasioned by fire agents writing risks they know are unsafe in order to obtain the premium. The plan of the commission would give the insurance commissioner authority to revoke licenses.

E. F. Goltra of St. Louis, is chairman of the commission. It was appointed shortly after the state and fire insurance companies had trouble over the threatened withdrawal of most of the fire companies from the state.

Before Congress of Vienna.

One hundred years ago Alexander I of Russia, the king of Prussia and other sovereigns, accompanied by a large retinue of diplomatists and soldiers, made their solemn entry into Vienna to take part in the congress which was to readjust the map of Europe. The throne which Napoleon had overturned were to be righted and the old despots whom he had dismissed were to be given back their scepters. The first weeks of the congress, however, were not devoted to the serious business at hand, but were spent in a succession of magnificent festivities. Notwithstanding the financial ruin of the country, Austria appropriated sums amounting to thousands of dollars daily to provide balls, banquets, concerts and other entertainments for the visiting monarchs and their advisers.

The Presidents.

Seven presidents have been born in Virginia, of whom five lived in that state when they were elected. Ohio has been the birthplace of six presidents, and five were elected while residents of that state. New York and North Carolina have each had three and Massachusetts two. Five other states have had one each.
