

The bat ray and cownose ray are both migratory ray species. They flap their wings gracefully through the water allowing them to travel long distances when the seasons change.

www.ButterflyHouseAquarium.org