GENERAL ASSOCIATION

ORIGIN AND PURPOSES OF THE SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION

ORIGIN

The association was organized in the autumn of 1895 at Atlanta, Georgia, at a meeting of delegates from a number of Southern colleges and universities. Invitations to this meeting had been sent out by a committee appointed by the faculty of Vanderbilt University. The purposes of the meeting, as stated, were:

1. To organize Southern schools and colleges for cooperation and mutual assistance;
2. To elevate the standard of scholarship and to effect uniformity of entrance requirements;
3. To develop preparatory schools and cut off this work from the colleges.

On this basis an organization was effected and a constitution and by-laws were adopted. The following institutions were the charter members: Vanderbilt University, University of North Carolina, University of the South, University of Mississippi, Washington and Lee University, Trinity College (Duke University). Chancellor J. H. Kirkland was the first Secretary and Treasurer and served in this capacity until 1908 when the late Professor Frederick W. Moore became Secretary and Treasurer, serving until his death in 1911. Since that time this office has been filled by the following: Bert E. Young, 1911-1915; Walter Hullihen, 1915-1917; Edward A. Bechtel, 1917-1921; Edwin D. Pusey, 1921-1923; Theodore H. Jack, 1923-1926; Guy E. Snively, 1926-1937; Shelton Phelps, 1937-1943; J. R. Robinson, 1943-1946; Albert J. Geiger, 1946-1965. Under the new constitution adopted in 1962, the director became the chief administrative officer of the Southern Association. This position was filled from July 1, 1963, to June 30, 1965 by Frank G. Dickey. Donald C. Agnew served as Acting Director during 1965-1966. Felix C. Robb assumed the office of Director on July 1, 1966.

Incorporation of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools as a non-profit corporation without capital stock was authorized by official delegates at the Annual Business Session of the Association on November 29, 1962, in Dallas, Texas. The Charter of Incorporation was granted by the Superior Court of Fulton County, Georgia, on June 20, 1963. A continuation of the tax exemption of the Association under Section 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 was granted by letter dated September 30, 1963. Detailed accounts of the transactions may be found in the Proceedings of the Sixty-Eighth Annual Meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

PURPOSES

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is organized exclusively for educational purposes and its object is to improve education in the South through exercise of leadership and through the promotion of cooperative efforts between colleges, schools and related agencies. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the charter specifies that the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools shall have the following specific powers and purposes:

- (a) To identify for local, regional, national and international purposes those schools and colleges of acceptable quality to be designated as accredited institutions.
- (b) To work with agencies concerned, with the improvement of education in other regions and other countries.
- (c) To promote, through positive action, cooperation and articulation among indviduals, institutions, groups and agencies interested in education in the South.

(d) To operate programs of action that are designed to bring about specific and concrete improvements in educational practice.

(e) To preserve the integrity of member schools and colleges and serve as a voice for the profession stimulating desirable developments and speaking against intolerable or threatening conditions.

(f) To discover and disseminate information bearing upon the solution of important educational problems.

(g) To encourage and strengthen local responsibility for schools.

(h) It shall also have all powers and authority generally conferred on non-profit corporations under the laws of the State of Georgia not inconsistent with the purposes set out above.

Other aims and the standards of the Association are set forth in the By-Laws and Standards contained in this issue.

HONORARY MEMBERS

The nominations were as follows: Guy E. Snavely, W. E. Pafford*, and A. J. Geiger. The question was called for and the nominees were unanimously elected. President Pressly invited the new honorary members to come to the platform to receive certificates and to be recognized.

The following statements on the activities of these individuals were submitted by the Committee on Honorary Memberships:

A. J. GEIGER

The first record we find of participation in activities of the Southern Association by Dr. A. J. Geiger was during the time of the Southern Study, 1938-1949, when his high school in

*Deceased January 2, 1968

St. Petersburg, Florida, was involved in that major project along with 29 other secondary schools of the South. He became a member of the Association's Executive Committee in 1942 and served on that body until 1946. (While members of the Executive Committee, at that time, were limited to a three-year term, the war years caused the Association to continue its officers in the various positions beyond the usual term.) Upon the death of the Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, Dr. J. R. Robinson, he became Secretary-Treasurer on June 15, 1946 while still serving as principal and continued in that capacity after transferring to the Hillsborough schools and became the first full-time Secretary-Treasurer when the Atlanta office was established on July 1, 1949. He served in this position until his retirement on June 30, 1965. His effective guidance and faithful efforts, especially his skillful handling of fiscal affairs, have been crucial in the recent development of the Association. He continues to serve Southern education in a key role as Deputy Assistant Commissioner in the Atlanta office for the U. S. Office of Education.

W. E. PAFFORD

Mr. W. E. Pafford went into the Georgia State Department of Education during the summer of 1942 and was officially appointed a member of the Commission on Secondary Schools at its annual meeting in December, 1942. He served continuously on the Commission until his retirement in June, 1964. He became a member of the Commission's Committee on Latin American Relations with its founding at the annual meeting in 1947 and served as chairman of that committee from 1953 until 1956. During that period he, along with Executive Secretary Frank Jenkins, established firmly the role of the Association in its work with American schools in Latin America and developed an intimate understanding of these schools and their problems. Also in the year 1947, the Commission began discussions about a need for major revisions in its standards which would lead to more qualitative approaches and established a new Committee on Standards, with Mr. Pafford as chairman, to undertake this major task. He served as chairman of that committee from 1947 until 1952 and is generally credited with having done a masterful job in this activity. He was Chairman of the Commission during 1950-51, Vice Chairman for the year 1951-52 and a member of the Executive Committee of the Association from 1959-61 during the period when the new Constitution was drafted and many of the present activities of the Association designed. During his long period of service to the Commission, Mr. Pafford served on practically all committees of the Commission at some time or other and, since his retirement, has continued his active contributions to the Association. His latest service has been that of working with the Commission's Committee on Standards as one of its three consultants and he also is working as a consultant with Georgia schools in their efforts to accredit elementary schools by the Association.

GUY EVERETT SNAVELY

Dr. Guy Everett Snavely's activity and leadership in Southern Association affairs has spanned a period of almost a half century. He was President of the Association in 1926-27, Secretary-Treasurer from 1926 to 1937, and has maintained active interest in its development to the present.

Dr. Snavely came to the South in 1919 as dean of Converse College. Two years later he was named president of Birmingham-Southern College, where he served until 1938. In that year he became the Executive Director of the Association of American Colleges with offices in Washington, D. C. Upon his retirement from that national post he returned to the South. He was named Chancellor of Birmingham-Southern College in 1955, which position he now holds.

During his career in higher education Dr. Snavely was engaged in the work of many national and international organizations in education. Since "retirement" he has served as interim president of several colleges and has been a member of boards of trustees of others. His scholarship is attested to by the number of his published books and articles. As a leader in Methodism and church-related higher education, his contribution has been large.

In his service to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and to its Commission on Colleges and its Commission on Secondary Schools, Dr. Guy E. Snavely helped develop the concepts of regional accreditation and guided the Association through difficult years of the economic depression of the 30's. He devoted himself unreservedly to the strengthening of the Association and to the improvement of quality among its member institutions.

Preparatory school teacher, vice principal, instructor of romance languages and literature, registrar, dean, college president, chancellor, executive head of a national association for liberal arts colleges, university trustee, member and officer of many national and international commissions and committees, recipient of honors from foreign governments, and author, Guy E. Snavely's career is interwoven with the development of education in the South and with the growth of the Southern Association.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

President Pressly presented a statement regarding the development of the Recommendations of the Board of Trustees to the Membership, detailing the work of the Ad Hoc Advisory Committee chaired by Harris W. Dean and the work done on the recommendations by the Trustees. He then recognized Thomas R. Landry, Chairman of the Commission on Elementary Schools; James B. Massey, Jr., Chairman of the Commission on Secondary Schools; and Andrew D. Holt, Chairman of the Commission on Colleges, in that order to present the views of their Commissions relating to the Recommendations of the Board of Trustees. After a brief discussion from the floor, a motion was made to adopt the recommendations and the supporting fee schedules. The motion carried.

The following improved and additional services for member institutions were proposed by the Board of Trustees:

CONSULTATION

Insure greater assistance to member institutions and prospective member institutions through increased consultative services.

SECONDARY SCHOOL SPECIALIST

Provide professional staff assistance in the Central Office for the Commission on Secondary Schools to meet the increasing responsibilities created by a steadily growing membership.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Make available professional staff assistance to institutions of higher learning—principally two-year—which offer programs of technical and vocational education, thereby releasing present staff for greater service to other areas of higher education.

TRAINING

Increase opportunities for training of members of visiting committees, prospective chairmen of visiting committees, and consultants for self-studies.

CLERICAL ASSISTANCE

Provide clerical assistance to state committees to help with correspondence and processing of reports, and generally to assist state chairmen in carrying out their responsibilities.

INNOVATION

Allocate, where desirable and on recommendation of the Commissions, funds for supporting innovative programs which promise to upgrade education for the youth of the region and which are of benefit to the general Association membership.

INFORMATION SERVICES

Improve the scope and quality of information disseminated to the members and the general public relative to the activities of the Association and its member institutions. Other objectives would be to serve as a clearinghouse for new ideas and programs related to educational improvements; to work with news media in the South and Nation to improve the climate for education; and to provide information for interpretative articles and editorials.

DATA COLLECTION

Simplify the load of paperwork in institutional reports by use of automated procedures and by coordination with other data-gathering agencies.

RESEARCH

Identify and stimulate significant research of practical value to member institutions. Research results will be published including: studies pertaining to standards; data which would enable institutions to compare themselves with others on a state, regional, or national basis; interdisciplinary studies of the South's educational potentialities, progress, and problems; and periodic reports on trends and the state of education in the Southern region.

CONFERENCES

Sponsor statewide, drive-in, and regional conferences for the membership on problems and issues of special concern. Included will be periodic meetings of executive secretaries with chairmen and other leaders of the Commissions.

PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

Translate the needs of the region into programs of activities and services of such quality as to merit interest and support; and maintain contact with funding agencies to secure financial support for Association projects and programs.

The Board of Trustees recommended the following fee schedules to maintain present services, the cost of which is increasing, and to finance the proposed expansion and improvement of services.

REPORT OF AUDITS FOR 1966-67

PEAT, MARWICK, MITCHELL & Co.
ACCOUNTANTS AND AUDITORS
BANK OF GEORGIA BUILDING
ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303

The Board of Trustees
Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Inc.:

We have examined the combined statement of assets and liabilities on a cash basis of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Inc. as of June 30, 1967 and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements on account of income and expenses and changes in fund balances for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The accounts of the participating states secondary schools' and elementary schools' committees, which are included in the combined cash basis statements, were examined by other independent public accountants and regulatory authority auditors whose reports have been furnished to us. The assets, fund balances, cash receipts on account of income and cash disbursements on account of expenses of these committees constitute 21.9%, 21.9%, .9% and 15.8%, respectively, of the related combined figures.

In our opinion, based upon our examination and the aforementioned reports of other independent public accountants, the accompanying combined statements present fairly, on a cash basis, the assets and liabilities of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Inc. at June 30, 1967, its cash transactions relating to income and expenses, and changes in fund balances for the year then ended on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year except for the changes described in note 1 to cash basis statements. The current year's supplementary data (pages 1 - 12), including schedules and comments, have been subjected to the same auditing procedures except as noted in the preceding paragraph and, in our opinion, are stated fairly in all material respects when considered in conjunction with the statements taken as a whole. Data for comparative purposes included in the comments was taken from a report prepared by a predecessor firm of certified public accountants.

NOTES TO COMBINED CASH BASIS STATEMENTS

(1) Method of Accounting and Reporting

The cash basis statements include the accounts of the Association and the accounts of the participating state committees of the Commission on Secondary Schools and the Commission on Elementary Schools. The accounts of the Education Improvement Project which are separate and distinct from the above accounts are not included in these financial statements.

The accounts are kept on the basis of cash receipts and disbursements. Accordingly, income from dues, investments and other sources is not recorded until collected. The accompanying statements therefore do not reflect accrued income or accrued or prepaid expenses.

For the year ended June 30, 1967, the Association has elected to combine the accounts of the state committees with the Association's accounts. As a result of this change in the method of reporting the beginning committees' fund balances of $102,874 are now reflected in the Association's cash basis statements.

At June 30, 1967, the Association elected to establish a property fund and to charge the fund with an annual provision for depreciation of applicable property. The adjustment charging the beginning fund balance with depreciation to June 30, 1966 in the amount of $12,596 has been reflected in the statement of changes in fund balances.

At June 30, 1967, the Association discontinued the policy of recording the inventory of stationery and supplies and charged the account balance (inventory at June 30, 1966—$511) to general association expenses.

(2) Cash and Cash Items

Cash and cash items aggregating $81,681 are restricted by grantor as to the use of the funds and are therefore not available for the general use of the Association.

(3) Furniture and Fixtures

Furniture and fixtures acquired prior to June 30, 1964 are stated at cost or estimated cost. Furniture and fixtures acquired subsequent thereto are stated at cost.

(4) Commitments

At June 30, 1967 the Association had lease commitments for office rentals with aggregate annual rentals of $16,908 on leases expiring in 1968. Subsequent to June 30, 1967 the Association entered into a new lease expiring in 1973 which increased aggregate annual rentals by $21,880. The Association receives reimbursement from the Education Improvement Project for a portion of the rentals and also sublets certain premises to the Southern Fellowships Fund.

A REPORT ON EDUCATION IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

The annual report of November, 1966, indicated cumulative funding during the prior three years of $18,266,750. During 1967, grants totaling $2,205,420 have been made for Education Improvement Project programs. New funds include $1,145,045 from the Danforth Foundation to complete the funding of three Rural Education Improvement Projects, $1,051,000 granted by the Division of College Support of the United States Office of Education under Title III of the Higher Education Act for the College Education Achievement Project, and $9,375 from the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation to support a four-year follow-up study of students enrolled in the College Preparatory Center Program. In addition to the foregoing grants, the Division of Student Financial Support of the United States Office of Education made available funds to the colleges and junior colleges in the College Education Achievement Project in the aggregate of approximately $600,000 for Educational Opportunity Grants to needy students enrolled in the various centers.

The Paperback Book Project, the Atlanta University Reading Project and the College Preparatory Center Program have been completed and final reports submitted. Copies of these reports are available in limited quantities for interested persons.

There remain four major projects in operation: the Urban Center Programs, Project Opportunity, the Rural Education Improvement Projects and the new College Education Achievement Project. The Tool Project still awaits basic funding.

Urban Center Programs

During the year the series of visits by key personnel from all of the projects to the various centers was completed with a visit to the New Orleans

Center in the spring and to the Huntsville Center in the fall. With the completion of this valuable series of meetings it has been decided to change the format of interproject meetings to focus on program components which are of common concern. This series has already been initiated with conferences on reporting and evaluation held during the spring in Durham and Nashville and with three-day workshops on teacher education sponsored by the Atlanta Center, the Education Improvement Project central staff, and the Southeastern Regional Laboratory, and supported by the National Institute for Advanced Study in Teaching Disadvantaged Youth. Plans have been formulated for a workshop on research and evaluation to be held in Atlanta in January.

One feature of the past year has been the increasing use of personnel from the urban centers as consultants in various aspects of program development for the rural centers. Personnel from the rural centers and from Project Opportunity have been included in the planned workshop on research and evaluation and directors and others from the rural centers attended the meeting in Huntsville.

The directors of the urban centers were featured at a general session of the Association during the Dallas meeting and a display on early childhood education was provided for the program of the Elementary Commission by the centers at Nashville, Atlanta, Durham, Wewahatchka, and Wheeler County.

Project Opportunity

During the summer enrichment programs were provided for students in the eleven centers, some locally, some wholly, or in part, on college campuses. Most of these were six weeks in length.

Curricular offerings varied, concentrating on experiences which would not be available to the students in their regular programs. Student evaluation at the conclusion was enthusiastic.

During the fall two conferences were held. At the Asheville conference, intended primarily for administrators, the focus was on innovation to enhance learning. The value of academic games was demonstrated through use of the Education Improvement Game, recently devised by the staff. The New Orleans conference was planned for student representatives from the sixteen sponsoring colleges. Discussions concerned organization of social action, academic, cultural and recreational programs, recruiting, selection and training of student workers.

Extensive work is being done in evaluating the effectiveness of the program. A report of this will be forthcoming.

Rural Education Improvement Projects

During the year the first three rural projects were fully funded. As previously stated Project Committees have been organized at all three centers and are active in guiding the development of the programs. Campus coordinators have been appointed. Mrs. Gwen Flanders in Wheeler County, Georgia, Wilbur C. Smith in Overton County, Tennessee, and Mrs. Betty Owens in Wewahitchka, Florida. The various innovations included in the projects are being implemented as quickly as competent personnel can be found or trained.

A workshop for all rural project personnel was held in Atlanta in July. Numerous local training workshops have been held at the three centers. Personnel have visited some of the urban centers and are being included, as described before, in workshops and conferences involving urban personnel. Project personnel are being encouraged to attend regional and national professional meetings and conferences.

The central staff is working on the development of rural projects in the other eight states of the region. A proposal for Sampson County, North Carolina, has been written and is under consideration by a foundation. A proposal is being prepared for Shelby County, Alabama. Others are in earlier stages of development.

College Education Achievement Project

This is a successor to the pilot College Preparatory Center Program and is utilizing the experience gained from the earlier program and many of the staff trained in that program. It operated at ten centers, involving eleven colleges and junior colleges:

Allen University	Johnson C. Smith
Benedict College	University
Bethune-Cookman	Knoxville College
College	Miles College
Chattanooga City	Morristown
Jr. College	College
Fort Valley State	Utica Junior
College	College
Wenonah State Jr. College

A staff of eight full-time teachers, specialists and counselors work on a highly individualized basis with approximately 100 freshmen at each center. The students are those adjudged to be able but high academic risks because of deficient preparation. Dr. Edsel Godbey, formerly director of the College Preparatory Center Program is the director of the central staff of the College Education Achievement Project. Dr. Joseph McKelpin, formerly director of Institutional Research at North Carolina College at Durham, who worked part time with the College Preparatory Center Program, has joined the staff as director of Evaluation and Research for the College Education Achievement Project.

In September, 972 students were enrolled in the ten centers. Base line data has been obtained and their progress will be measured in various areas from time to time to evaluate the effectiveness of various program components. It is planned, if funding is granted, to expand the College Education Achievement Project to fifteen centers in the fall of 1968.

SESSIONS OF COMMISSION AND COLLEGE DELEGATE ASSEMBLY

MINUTES OF THE COMMISSION ON COLLEGES

EXECUTIVE SESSION OF
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1967

The Commission on Colleges met in executive session on Tuesday, November 28, at 9:00 a.m. in the Fiesta Room of the Baker Hotel, Dallas, Texas. Chairman A. D. Holt called on President John Bertrand of Berry College for the invocation.

The minutes of the 1966 meeting, as published in the annual Proceedings, were approved without a reading.

The "Report of Activities of the Executive Council at the Summer Conference," as given below, was read by the secretary.

The Commission approved a revision of Illustration 2 of Standard Two, the text of which is as follows:

Illustration 2 of Standard Two Governing Boards

Although it is recognized that the title and function of governing boards vary, there should be a clearly identifiable body which is granted and must assume the responsibility for policy. The duties and responsibilities of the board should be clearly defined in an available official document. This document should also specify the number of members, length of service, rotation policies, organization and committee structure, frequency of meetings, and other pertinent information.

The board should be assured appropriate continuity and independence. Appropriate continuity is normally assured by express provision for individual terms of adequate length, reasonably staggered; and for removal from office only for cause, by procedures involving due process, desirably by the board itself. The board's independence is normally assured by an expression or an established tradition that the board is independent of outside control in determining policy for the institution. In practice the board has the responsibility to exercise its independent judgment in matters of institutional policy, and should not permit itself to be subject to undue outside pressures.

The Commission approved a statement on "Substantive Changes" which includes a general policy developed by the Federation of Regional Accrediting Commissions of Higher Education and a series of policies to govern various types of substantive changes.

Substantive Changes— Definitions and Policies

A substantive change is one which appears to modify the nature and scope of the institution, which affords instruction at a more advanced level, or which adds new geographic location(s) for instruction. When an institution commits itself to a substantive change it is the responsibility of the institution to notify the Commission on Colleges. During the change the institution should assure an orderly transition consistent with the regulations of the Commission. After the change is completed, the institution must seek validation by the Commission.

Classification and Policies—The following list classifies the principal substantive changes for which policies have been developed by the Commission on Colleges. For each change the Commission policy is cited.

I. Changes affecting governance.

- a. Change from private to public status; change from public to private; change from church affiliated to independent, or independent to church affiliated.

Policy

When an accredited institution undergoes a change of governance, the institution may be regarded by the Executive Council as a new institution effective with the date on which the change takes place. Such an institution will be eligible immediately to seek accreditation in a manner prescribed by the Commission on Colleges.

- b. A merger of two accredited institutions.

Policy

When two institutions effect a merger, the accreditation of the resultant institution may be established on the basis of the accreditation of one of the merging institutions. In each case of merger, specific rulings will be determined by the Executive Council of the Commission on Colleges.

- c. A branch campus gaining independent status.

Policy

When a branch campus is made into an independent institution, the institution will be regarded as new and eligible to seek accreditation according to policies which govern the accreditation of new institutions. An exception to this general policy may be made by the Executive Council for a branch recently evaluated in the Program of Institutional Self-Study.

- d. Acquisition of an accredited institution by an unaccredited institution.

Policy

An accredited institution deeded to or absorbed by an unaccredited institution may not retain its accreditation beyond the date of formal change of status. Eligibility to seek accreditation by the resultant institution as a new institution need not be modified by the combination of the two institutions.

- e. Acquisition of an unaccredited institution by an accredited institution.

Policy

An unaccredited institution deeded to or absorbed by an accredited institution will be regarded as a branch or center (according to the program retained) and must conform to the policy on branches and centers (See IVb.)

- f. Merger of an accredited and an unaccredited institution.

Policy

When two institutions effect a merger, one being accredited and the other being not accredited, the resultant institution may retain the accreditation of the former but must secure the reaffirmation of accreditation immediately and not later than two years following merger.

II. Changes affecting degree level.

- a. Conversion of a two-year into a four-year institution.

Policy

Notification of the planned conversion of a two-year institution into a four-year institution must be sent to the Executive Secretary at least one year prior to the beginning of the conversion. In a manner prescribed by the Commission on Colleges, the institution must seek accreditation as a senior college. Accreditation as a two-year institution cannot extend beyond the calendar year in which the first baccalaureate class graduates.

- b. Introduction of master's level work at a bachelor's level institution.

Policy

Notification of the planned introduction of master's level programs must be sent to the Executive Secretary at least one year prior to the beginning of the programs. In a manner prescribed by the Commission on Colleges, the institution must give evidence of compliance with the Standards of the College Delegate Assembly.

- c. Introduction of doctor's level work at a master's level institution.

Policy

Notification of the planned introduction of doctor's level programs must be sent to the Executive Secretary at least one year prior to the beginning of the programs. In a manner prescribed by the Commission on Colleges, the institution must give evidence of compliance with the Standards of the College Delegate Assembly.

III. Changes affecting educational programs at the same level.

- a. Conversion of a single (limited) purpose to a multipurpose institution.

Policy

An institution making a significant departure from its historic and limited educational program, that in effect at the time of the most recent evaluation, must give evidence of compliance with the Standards of the College Delegate Assembly. (Examples of such changes might be: the change of a junior college or technical institute into a comprehensive community college; the introduction of new areas of graduate studies.) Specific rulings governing the time for the reaffirmation of accreditation will be made by the Executive Council.

- b. A significant alternation in the purpose of the institution.

Policy

An institution which effects a marked alteration in its purpose, without necessarily expanding the educational programs, may be directed by the Executive Council to give evidence of compliance with the Standards of the College Delegate Assembly.

IV. Changes affecting geographical setting.

- a. Removal of the institution to a new location.

Policy

An institution which is moved to a new location, completely apart from the first site, will be required to offer evidence that the institution at the new site is an institution comparable to the original but in different facilities. The accreditation can be continued.

- b. Addition of new locations for instruction (centers or branches).

Policy

When an institution establishes a new center or branch, the institution must undertake within two years the Institutional Self-Study Program designed for centers or branches. Accreditation of the parent institution can be affected by the evaluation of a center or branch.

The Commission recessed at 9:45 a.m. to reassemble at 9:00 a.m., Wednesday, November 29.

Report of Activities of the Executive Council at the Summer Conference

The Executive Council of the Commission on Colleges was called into session at 2:00 p.m., June 19, 1967, at the Regency Hyatt House, Atlanta, Georgia, by President A. D. Holt, Chairman.

The Chairman announced appointment to the Executive Council of Kermit Johnson, Superintendent of the Jefferson County Board of Education, to replace A. Craig Phillips who resigned from the Commission.

The Report of the Ad Hoc Advisory Committee, a committee for the Trustees to explore the role and scope of the Association, was reviewed. The Council endorsed in principle the Report, and endorsed specifically the concern for better ways to serve the needs of individual states in the accreditation of schools.

In recognition of some legislation pending in the state of Florida which might affect the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the Council adopted the following resolution to the Board of Trustees of the Southern Association:

WHEREAS, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools consists of member institutions at the elementary, secondary, and higher education levels, and

WHEREAS, accreditation is the recognition of quality education by the Commission on Elementary Schools, the Commission on Secondary Schools, and the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that any action affecting the accrediting activity of one of the Commissions necessarily must affect the accrediting activity of all the other Commissions of the Association.

The Executive Secretary reported on the participation of representatives of the Commission on Colleges in the Baptist Education Study Task (BEST) seminars. The representatives were invited to attend the seminars and to describe the Southern Association, the Commission on Colleges, and accreditation policies for the seminars which dealt with the Denomination's program of higher education.

The Council received a report of a special committee appointed to study budget procedures in state governments as they relate to the state institutions of higher learning. The Council requested the committee to prepare a possible revision of Illustration 7 of Standard Four for consideration by the Commission on Colleges at the annual meeting. The Council further requested that the special committee serve as a liaison committee to improve communication and cooperation between the Commission on Colleges and state budget officers.

A report was received from a special committee appointed to study the charters and bylaws of church-related institutions. In response to the report, the Council adopted for recommendation to the Commission on Colleges a revision of Illustration 2 of Standard Two. The Council approved two other features of the report: a recommendation that legal assistance be secured for an examination of the charters and bylaws of church-related colleges using the revised Illustration as a criterion; and a recommendation that accreditation of institutions be dependent in the future upon compliance with the letter and spirit of the revised Illustration if adopted by the Commission on Colleges.

The Council adopted for general use the revised edition of the Manual for Institutional Self-Study.

The program of Recognized Candidate for Accreditation, heretofore an experimental activity supervised directly by the Council, was reviewed in the light of new accreditation schedules. The Council approved the transfer of the Candidate Program to the appropriate standing committees of the Commission on Colleges.

The Executive Secretary reported on the special project of institutional self-studies financed by a grant from the Carnegie Foundation. The Council approved a proposal that, temporarily, Gordon Sweet be named acting director of the special project and Charles Vail be named acting executive secretary; and that these appointments be for six months, subject to continuation or change at the 1967 annual meeting.

The Council continued with routine matters pertaining to the work of the Commission on Colleges and various institutions. The meeting adjourned at 11:00 a.m., June 20.

EXECUTIVE SESSION OF WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1967

The Commission on Colleges met in executive session on Wednesday, November 29, at 9:00 a.m. in the Texas

The Commission approved for transmittal to the College Delegate Assembly that report, which is included in the minutes of the Assembly meeting of November 29, 1967.

The report of the nominating committee was received and approved for transmittal to the College Delegate Assembly.

The Commission received and approved the nominating committee's recommendations for officers and members of the Executive Council as follows:

Statement of the Chairman

The Commission on Colleges is continuing in its efforts to meet its obligations to higher education in the Southern States. The changing patterns and controls of higher education in our region and throughout the nation challenge the strength of this democratic organization which functions as any such organization must. Nevertheless, it is the commitment of the Commission to sustain a contemporary program—indeed to look into the future—as it carries on the educational services assigned to it.

We are engaged in a voluntary effort, voluntary in the sense of those institutions which belong, and voluntary in the way in which the work is conducted. The very existence of the Commission on Colleges depends upon the voluntary participation of hundreds of individuals each year in such activities as the Commission and its standing committees, the special committees assembled to develop or improve programs, and visiting committees which do the evaluative work on college campuses. The significance of this participation is evident when seen through the labors of the more than 400 individuals who worked for the Commission during the past year. In behalf of the Commission, I express deep gratitude.

Subject to College Delegate Assembly action today on the admission of new members, this body will include 294 senior colleges and universities, 143 two-year colleges, and 8 special purpose institutions.

In the span of one year, eighteen established institutions of higher learning have been added to the resources of the Association, bringing the net total to 445. Another twenty-two institutions are designated as Recognized Candidates for Accreditation, and eighty-two are listed as Correspondents of the Commission.

The Institutional Self-Study Program continues as a vital factor in our efforts to improve education in the region. The Program recently turned a kind of corner which is a way of taking note that there are several institutions now undertaking a second self-study. This is not to say that we have completed the first ten-year cycle; for, indeed, the "cycle" applies only to a given institution. Actually, some 125 institutions have not completed the Self-Study Program, and we add new institutions each year. Hence for many years to come we will have at any one time a blend of first and second time studies underway. An effect of this blending may be the accelerated improvement in quality of the Program itself.

In this past year other features in the Self-Study Program have gained significance. Direct assistance for the Negro colleges engaged in self-studies has been made possible by a grant from the Carnegie Foundation, and Mr. Gordon Sweet is devoting essentially all of his efforts in this important area. A revised manual for self-study has been published and placed in general usage. Studies and evaluations of centers and branches have proceeded vigorously, and plans are underway for even more attention to education conducted in off-campus situations. Throughout all aspects of the Program, increasing emphasis is being placed on the function of well-developed planning on the part of institutions.

The Board of Trustees of the Southern Association authorized in this past year a special study of the mission and general responsibilities of the Association. An Ad Hoc Advisory Committee, made up of people actively concerned with the work of the Association, outlined some larger areas of obligations and opportunities. All of you have received a result of that study in the form of recommendations of the Board of Trustees, recommendations which require some adjustment in membership dues. We hope you will support the new dues schedule, partly because you will recognize that the costs of sustaining present activities is rising, and partly because there is a commitment to give more extensive service of the kind we recognize to be valuable. Specifically, in the College Commission we hope to provide greater assistance in the area of technical education. We hope, also, to gain talent for research in the processes of accreditation—the evaluative processes—which can enhance educational quality. This final point is, after all, the main purpose of accreditation.

Several major studies are underway which have special relevance to the work of the Commission. Some of these deserve mention at this time.

The survey of faculty training is underway and good progress has been made. The magnitude of the task is impressive, both from the standpoint of the institutions and that of the Commission staff. A rough estimate suggests that we will have in one place and for one moment in time basic information about some 35,000 people teaching in Southern colleges and universities. The survey covers not only those colleges comprising our membership but most unaccredited institutions which have expressed an interest in membership.

The faculty survey is comprehensive. The initial purpose is to evaluate the success institutions have had in meeting the Standard pertaining to the academic preparation of faculty. If that standard needs revision, the survey will provide data on which the revision can be based. In other ways the survey will have significance to agencies and educational systems; and, generally, will answer many current questions about the people who conduct higher education in our region. The comprehensive nature and the number of people involved render impossible any sound conclusions at this annual meeting. Data handling is proceeding at a good pace, and we expect a report at the summer meeting of the Executive Council.

In the Miami meeting of this Assembly last year, you were informed of a study of charters and bylaws of private institutions. This study is nearing completion. As predicted, we now have a much better understanding of the relations between religious bodies and the governing boards of church-related institutions. Furthermore, we have discovered unexpectedly some questionable features of a few charters. The study will be most helpful to the Commission as it fosters proper control and integrity for its member institutions. The results of the study will be made a matter of record for the individual institutions.

A study of state budget controls over higher education was completed during the past year. While developing an inventory of current budget control practices in the Southern states, better—and sometimes initial—relations were established with important offices of state government. The study is complete, yet efforts to sustain and improve those relations will be continued by the Commission. Meanwhile, the findings of the study will be drawn into the Commission's activities as often as possible and in such ways as to assure benefit to the membership. A report of the study will be published soon.

Institutional characteristics which have bearing on the accreditation process are being examined as another of the Commission's studies. This endeavor may generate for the institution some better processes by which to prepare for a self-study program. In other ways the research may help a visiting committee to utilize its time to better advantage for the institution.

In the planning stage is a study to be concerned with the evaluation of graduate work. "Evaluation" suggests that the goal of the study pertains exclusively to accreditation. This is clearly not the only objective, for the Commission hopes to increase the scope of consultation services to institutions moving into new or higher degree programs. We want to be better prepared for those services.

The Federation of Regional Accrediting Commissions of Higher Education, of which we are a part, has moved rapidly to assert itself in the national scene. A director of the Federation is on the job and serving well the cause of accreditation in Washington and elsewhere. Good progress has been achieved in the quest for some consistencies among the regional associations. Two examples of this progress can be seen in the proceedings of this meeting: (1) a uniform meaning of the term "Correspondent of the Commission" has been reached with the further understanding that published lists of Correspondents and Candidates for Accreditation will supplant the letters of reasonable assurance hitherto sent by the Commission in behalf of unaccredited institutions seeking funds from federal agencies; (2) the concept of a substantive change in member institutions has been defined along with broad policies governing the relations of institutions and the Commission during the change. Our Commission has codified substantive changes and policies governing those changes, carefully in terms of the Federation statement, and has prepared the summary placed in your hands today.

RECOGNIZED CANDIDATES FOR ACCREDITATION

Acceptance as a recognized candidate for accreditation attests that the Commission on Colleges considers an institution to be offering its students on at least a minimally satisfactory level, the educational opportunities implied by its objectives. In the Commission's view the institution's organization, structure, and staffing are acceptable for its stage of development, its sponsors are committed to supplying its needs and are able to do so, its governing board is functioning properly, and its academic and financial plans are well designed. Candidacy is not accreditation. It indicates that an institution is progressing steadily and properly toward accreditation.

STANDARDS OF THE COLLEGE DELEGATE ASSEMBLY OF THE SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SCHOOLS

PRINCIPLES AND PHILOSOPHY OF THE COLLEGE DELEGATE ASSEMBLY IN ACCREDITATION

The College Delegate Assembly of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools is charged with the responsibility of accrediting institutions of higher learning in the southern region of the United States. This responsibility is exercised through the Commission on Colleges, which considers its principal concern in accreditation to be the improvement of educational quality in the institutions of the area it serves. It is also the responsibility of the Commission to work with institutions of higher education in Latin America toward mutual understanding and educational cooperation.

The Commission on Colleges sees its task as intimately related to the traditional public philosophy of the United States—that free men can and ought to govern themselves, and that they do so best through a representative, flexible, and responsive system. Accordingly, the Commission believes that accreditation with its controls and stimulation can be accomplished best through a voluntary association of non-profit educational institutions.

The Commission asserts the principle that regional accreditation is preferable to state or national because provincialism tends to threaten the smaller unit, and a national organization may become unwieldy. The boundaries of the accrediting association should not be identified with political framework, either state or national. There are many problems to be shared at the regional level that might not be dealt with effectively in a state or nationwide association. This does not in any way limit the existing cooperation and exchange of ideas with the other regional associations which are largely parallel in aims and functions. The several regional associations in combination form an effective national system for the control and improvement of quality in higher education.

The Commission on Colleges is dedicated to a firm belief in the rights of a teacher to teach, investigate, and publish freely, and in the rights of students to the opportunity of learning. The rights of an institution to fulfill the purposes for which it was founded are held to be incontestable. Sometimes these rights seem to be in conflict; it is then that the Commission must attempt to bring into harmony the counter-claims to freedom of the individual, the institution, and society. The Commission also stands ready to protest in the name of academic integrity when the educational effort is hampered by political interference, or is in any way menaced by those who would subvert the search for truth.

With this general philosophy which affirms that accreditation should be based on mutual, voluntary assistance at a regional level in an atmosphere of academic freedom, the Commission on Colleges has developed after long experience certain criteria and procedures. The Commission consists of representatives elected by the College Delegate Assembly and fulfills its functions through appropriate committees. Much of the labor of the Commission goes into establishing the qualitative and quantitative criteria against which an institution is evaluated to determine its effectiveness, and its acceptability in the academic world and the society of which it is a part.

As a basic principle, the Commission regards its function of accreditation as accrediting an institution as a whole. It recognizes that accreditation of professional schools, divisions, or departments within complex universities is also provided by other recognized accrediting organizations. Although it cooperates with these agencies for professional accreditation, the Commission retains the right and responsibility of assuring that the total program of a complex institution is coordinated, administered, and held in proper balance. Cooperation with professional agencies does not limit in any way the Commission's right to accredit the total institution. It becomes the responsibility of the Commission, furthermore, to evaluate the work of specialized schools, divisions, or departments when they are not accredited by the appropriate professional agencies.

The Standards which the Commission has developed apply to initial applications, to member institutions, and to the Institutional Self-Study and Periodic Visitation Program. This statement of Principles and Philosophy of the College Delegate Assembly in Accreditation is considered not only as an introduction to the Standards, but is also of equal force with the eleven Standards.

With the exception of the Standard on Purpose, each Standard is presented in two parts. The statement of principles under each Standard can be changed only by action of the College Delegate Assembly upon recommendation by the Commission on Colleges. The illustrative and interpretative material under each Standard applies to current situations and is subject to change by the Commission as evidence justifies.

A change in illustrative and interpretative material will be effective after announcement to member institutions but will be taken to the College Delegate Assembly only when that body requests a review of a specific change.

Meeting each Standard is not all that is required for accreditation by and membership in the Southern Association. Assuredly, the Commission is interested in qualifications of faculty, the state of academic freedom, library size, and numerous other educational factors in an institutional operation. It is finally concerned, however, with the totality of the effort, and the atmosphere in which it is carried on. The assessment of this totality overrides smaller considerations as the decision is approached whether or not to confer or to retain membership.

No institution should remain at the minimum level, for the educational endeavor is a dynamic process. A university or college improves and grows in strength or it declines. The Commission tries to foster in each member qualitative improvement. The method used in this effort is the Institutional Self-Study and Periodic Visitation Program. Once in each ten-year period, member universities and colleges are required to make a comprehensive Self-Study which is to be evaluated at the institution by a qualified committee of educators. This is the procedure for reaffirmation of accreditation, but the primary purpose of these visits is the qualitative improvement of each member institution. The Commission is particularly concerned with the follow-up procedure and insists upon being kept informed as to progress resulting from the experience of self-study. It is hoped that the Self-Study will offer a method by which member institutions may appropriate for themselves the creative vision of their best and most devoted minds, supplemented by objective outside evaluators, thereby furnishing a stimulus to the continued self-development of the academic community.

The maintenance of Standards and participation in the Institutional Self-Study and Periodic Visitation Program are the normal procedures expected of member institutions. The Commission, however, reserves the right to call upon its members from time to time for specific information that may be useful to the membership. It also insists upon the right, or even obligation, to make special studies or investigations of member institutions.

The Commission encourages member institutions to conduct experimental programs. If these programs are at variance with the Standards, the institution is expected to submit the program to the Executive Council of the Commission.

It is assumed that institutions joined in the work of this Commission admit the responsibility they have to each other and to their society. The Commission believes that its philosophy of accreditation logically precludes any attitude of exclusiveness. No institution asking for membership will be refused if it demonstrates its acceptability under the Standards of the Commission.

STANDARD ONE PURPOSE

Each institution should clearly define its purpose and should incorporate this definition into a statement which is a pronouncement of its role in the educational world. The institution's integrity is measured not only in terms of its stated purpose, but also in terms of its conscientious endeavor to fulfill this purpose.

It is recognized that the membership consists of a diversity and variety of institutions, ranging from those which have a singleness of purpose to those which are highly complex, from those which are church related to those which are privately or publicly controlled. Each institution, however, should have a well developed and available statement of purpose, not only worthy of higher education in general but also appropriate for its specific educational role. This statement should be clear and concise, and should represent the official concept and practice of the institution.

The formulation of the statement of purpose is a major decision and basic changes should be made only after proper consideration and approval by the governing board. This should not be interpreted, however, as a denial of the right of the faculty to take the initiative in recommending changes. An institution should also examine its statement of purpose periodically. This re-evaluation should include the changes which have taken place internally as well as the changing responsibilities of the institution to its constituency.

All appropriate publications should reflect accurately the institution's statement of purpose. All institutional programs, including the programs outlined in the official publications, should be designed to achieve the stated purpose. The faculty, financial resources, physical plant, and educational program should be adequate and appropriate to meet the stated purpose of the institution.

STANDARD TWO ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION

The administrative organization of an institution of higher learning should bring together its various resources and coordinate them effectively to accomplish its objectives. Although a similar pattern of organization for all member institutions is neither required nor expected, the organizational structure and the administrative processes should be well defined and understood by the entire college community.

The governing board, the term used in the Standards to apply to all governing bodies of institutions of higher education, is the legally constituted body representing the founders, the religious group, or the supporting governmental unit. Members of the governing board should be chosen because of their ability and willingness to serve the institution without selfish motives. The board acts as a body politic and no single member can act in place of the total board. Since the governing board holds institutions in trust, there should be a continuity in membership which will assure stability.

The responsibilities of the governing board include establishing broad institutional policies, securing financial resources to support adequately the institution's program, and selecting the chief administrative officer and, upon his recommendation, the other administrative officers of the institution. The governing board should not be subject to undue pressures from state officials or other outside political or religious groups; furthermore, the governing board should protect the administration from similar outside pressures.

There should be a clear differentiation between the policy making functions of the governing board and the responsibility of those in charge of administering these policies. General institutional policies may originate within the board or be approved by the board upon the recommendation of the administration. Once these have become the policies of the governing board, the chief administrative officer should be free to implement such policies and to administer the institution within the broad policies laid down by the board.

In addition to the administrative head of the institution, there should be other administrative officials directly responsible to him. The duties of these officers should be well defined and known to the faculty and staff. An effective pattern of organization will contribute to the development of the institution and to general morale. Opportunities for adequate communications throughout the institution are highly important.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

1. Descriptive Titles and Terms

The descriptive title as well as the organization of an institution should be appropriate to the purpose, the size, and the complexity of the institution. The indiscriminate use of "university" for "college," the retention of descriptive terms in the title of the institution after the specific function has been dropped or relegated to minor position, or the overly ambitious title not justified by actual practice reflect unfavorably upon an institution. When an institution contemplates changing from a junior college to a senior college or moving to other higher degree levels, it must notify the Executive Secretary of the Commission on Colleges.

2. Governing Boards

Although it is recognized that the title and function of governing boards vary, there should be a clearly identifiable body which is granted and must assume the responsibility for policy. The duties and responsibilities of the board should be clearly defined in an available official document. This document should also specify the number of members, length of service, rotation policies, organization and committee structure, frequency of meetings, and other pertinent information.

The board should be assured appropriate continuity and independence. Appropriate continuity is normally assured by express provision for individual terms of adequate length, reasonably staggered; and for removal from office only for cause, by procedures involving due process, desirably by the board itself. The board's independence is normally assured by an expression or an established tradition that the board is independent of outside control in determining policy for the institution. In practice the board has the responsibility to exercise its independent judgment in matters of institutional policy, and should not permit itself to be subject to undue outside pressures.

3. By-Laws and Faculty Manuals

Published by-laws of the board and formalized faculty manuals are strongly recommended. These or similar official documents should contain the following information: the duties and responsibilities of chief administrative officers, the pattern of faculty organization, statements governing tenure and related procedures, and all other policies and regulations that affect the members of the faculty, the members of the administrative staff, or other college personnel.

4. Size of Institutions

Although there is no specific rule as to the minimum size of an institution to be admitted and retained in membership, the enrollment and economic resources should be sufficient to justify an effective educational unit.

5. Institutions as Units

When an institution is a unit of a public or private school system, the administration, management, financial and student accounting, and general operation must be such as to reflect clearly the autonomy of the institution as distinguished from the other units of the school system.

STANDARD THREE

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The educational program must be clearly related to the purposes of the institution. This relationship between purposes and program must be demonstrated in policies of admission, content of curricula, requirements for graduation, instructional methods and procedures, and quality of work required of the students.

An institution should have a well-defined and clearly-expressed policy of admission. The admission policy should be related to the educational purposes of the institution and should establish such qualitative and quantitative standards and criteria as are necessary to insure the admission of students who can benefit from the educational program. The policy should require the completion of a secondary school curriculum that lays a sound foundation for a program within the institution.

The curricular offerings of an institution should be clearly and accurately described in published materials. Curricula should be directly related and appropriate to the purposes and objectives of the institution, to the ability and preparation of the students admitted, and to the financial and instructional resources of the institution.

The principal focus of the total institution should be on the education of students. Instruction is the basic means to this end. Instructional techniques and policies should express the purposes of the institution, as well as the specific objectives of an individual course. Instruction, to be effective, must be evaluated continuously, and an institution should be able to present evidence that efforts are being made to improve instruction. Concern for improvement of instruction is a mark of institutional vitality.

1. Admission

The admission policy of an institution is usually and properly made at two levels of authority. General policy is established by the governing board normally on recommendation of the administration. The authority to decide the size and character of a student body, for example, is the responsibility of the board which determines the overall policy of the total institution. Specific admission policy, however, should be the responsibility of the administration and the faculty, and the agency responsible for administering this policy should be clearly identified. In some cases this agency will be a single administrative officer, or a committee of administrative officers. In other cases the agency will be a committee of the faculty, or a combined committee of administrative officers and members of the faculty. In any case, this agency should be identifiable, recognized, and responsible.

In keeping with this statement of policy, there should be an institutional agency (or agencies in the case of multi-purpose universities which operate separate schools within the university) which properly will be responsible for establishing and maintaining the academic criteria for approved admission. In the case of multi-purpose universities which operate separate schools within the university there should be provision for institution-wide coordination of all admission policies.

The admission policies of an institution should be clearly expressed and openly published, and should explain both general and specific requirements and patterns of secondary school courses where specified.

Students admitted for the first time should have completed an accredited secondary school program which provides a foundation appropriate for college study. A course of study is a total program as well as a concentration in certain subject matter fields; therefore, the admissions agency should examine the applicant's secondary school record for evidence of his ability to make satisfactory progress in the appropriate disciplines of the institution.

In most cases, completion of an accredited secondary school program means graduation with a diploma. In some cases, however, an admissions agency might justifiably accept a student upon the basis of some other criteria, as, for example, an unusually superior student who has advanced beyond his classmates or a more mature student who has received a reasonable equivalent of secondary preparation in an informal educational program. In all such cases, however, the admissions agency must accept the responsibility of justifying its decision for each acceptance.

The policy with regard to accepting transfer credit should be clearly defined. The quality of work for transferred credits should be in keeping with the quality required of all students of the institution. The student transferring should be officially informed at the time of his admission exactly as to the status of his advanced standing.

The Commission encourages institutions to develop experimental programs for advanced and talented students. If these experiments represent radical departures from the Standards of the Commission, they must be reported to the Executive Secretary of the Commission.

There should be a definite and clearly defined policy regarding readmission of students dismissed or suspended from the college for academic reasons. The readmission of students dismissed under this policy should be consistent with the recognized academic standards of the admissions agency and of the total institution.

There must be a definite procedure in the administration of admission policy which shall be followed in the admission of all students. All pertinent documents should be on file and examined by the proper admissions agency before a student is admitted. These documents must include academic records and such other information as is necessary to enable the institution to select students consistent with its admission policy.

It is the responsibility of the institution to assure that its recruiting activities and materials portray the institution accurately and honestly.

Procedures for financial aid and scholarships should be carefully developed and administered in accordance with a consistent policy.

2. Curriculum

There should be a clearly defined process by which the curriculum is established and controlled. This process should recognize the various roles of the governing board, the administration, and the faculty.

The determination of general policy is the responsibility of the governing board. Such matters as the number and types of degrees, the number and nature of the schools or colleges through which the curriculum is administered, and the extent to which the institution should offer graduate work are clearly areas over which the governing board has final jurisdiction. The implementation of the general policy and the determination of specific academic details are the responsibility of the administration and the faculty.

In a single-purpose institution responsibility for curriculum control and administration should be assigned to a committee of the faculty and administrative officials. A multi-purpose university might have an agency for each school or college, but should establish a single coordinating agency at the university level. In every case, areas of jurisdiction should be defined, with the channels of communication and control clearly established.

The scope and nature of the curriculum should be related to the stated purposes of the institution and in keeping with the available resources, both financial and academic. Definite efforts should be made to avoid the proliferation of course offerings and degree programs. A small institution with limited resources should not offer a wide variety of major programs and degrees. There should be in each undergraduate school a recognizable common core of subject matter that expresses the educational philosophy of the institution.

In each degree program there should be an orderly and identifiable sequence of courses with an adequate number of hours required in courses above the elementary level and with an appropriate system of prerequisites. The institution should define clearly what is meant by a major or a field of concentration, with stated minimums and maximums of hours required. There should be limitations on the number of hours allowed in specialized areas. These limitations should be related to the degree programs involved. Provision should be made for electives at least at the advanced levels.

The catalog and other published materials concerning institutional offerings should accurately and honestly reflect the academic resources of the institution.

3. Instruction

Effective instruction depends largely upon the general environment in the institution. This environment should be conducive to study and learning. Extra-curricular activities should provide a balance for student life, but should not be allowed to distract the student from his academic pursuits. An institution of higher education should endeavor to create a climate of intellectual curiosity and achievement among its students. The faculty and administration should be able to provide evidence of concern for the general setting in which learning is expected to take place. Such evidence should include efforts to provide for the professional growth of the faculty, provision for extra-curricular seminars and lectures, and other means of creating a stimulating environment.

Programs and courses should be supported by adequate library holdings, instructional materials, and physical facilities. Efficient use of such resources is an indication of concern for effective instruction. It is not enough to show that library, laboratory, and other facilities exist. It should also be possible to demonstrate that they are used effectively in the instructional process.

Instruction should be related to the objectives of each course, the capabilities of the students, and the general institutional standards of quality. The process of instruction should be organized so that students have a clear idea of the aims and the requirements of each course, and the methods of evaluation employed. Experimentation with devices and techniques in the improvement of instruction should be encouraged, but should be subject to critical analysis.

Evaluation of instruction should be related to subject matter, course objectives, and the program of studies. The effectiveness of instruction should be under continuous study. Examinations should be developed with care, and variety in types of measurements should be encouraged. Attempts should be made to evaluate the longer and more general effects of instruction by such devices as comprehensive examinations, the following up of graduates in more advanced programs, the sampling of the opinions of former students, and the use of standardized tests.

Effective instruction is related to class size, the instructional load, and the nature of the course. The size of classes should be governed by the nature and purpose of the course, the adequacy of teaching facilities, the competencies of the teaching staff, and the characteristics of the students involved, as well as the cost of the program. In cases of large classes, appropriate provision should be made for instructional assistance, the division of classes into small sections meeting at different times, individual conferences, or other devices.

The operating budget of an institution should reflect its concern with instruction. One measure of the quality of the educational program is the proportion of the budget that is allocated directly to instruction.

Since they are definitely related to the effectiveness of instruction, the following sections under the Standard on Faculty should be considered as a part of the evaluation of instruction: academic preparation of faculty, professional growth, teaching loads, and promotions in rank.

STANDARD FOUR

FINANCIAL RESOURCES

The financial resources of a college or university determine, in part, the quality of its educational program. Conversely, the quality of the educational program affects the ability of an institution to increase its financial resources. The adequacy of the financial resources of an institution is to be judged in relation to the basic purposes of the institution, the scope of its program, and the number of its students.

The organization of the business structure and the control of financial resources should always reflect the fact that financial resources are tools of the educational enterprise, never the reverse. The business management of an institution should exhibit sound budgeting and control, proper records, reporting, and auditing.

Financial planning for the future within each educational institution is a condition of wisely guided development. Planning should include specific projections of income from each source, specific plans for major categories of expenditure, and plans for the increase of capital resources.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

1. Sources of Income

The sources of income for educational institutions are subject to variation with the fluctuations of the economy. State appropriations, appropriations from other supporting bodies, such as, churches, annual giving, tuition and fees charged to students, and income from endowment are each subject to fluctuation. Private and church-related institutions should have a history of diversity of sources of income in order to indicate stability. Each institution should give evidence of the cultivation and utilization of each source of income so that the combination is adequate to its needs.

Endowments are highly important to non-tax supported institutions. Although income from endowment is subject to change with fluctuations in the economy, an institution having available income from this source strengthens the base of stability.

2. Stability of Income

Both public and private colleges shall exhibit stability of income as measured by at least three years' history. The amount shall be measured as income per student rather than in terms of gross amount of income.

3. Organization for the Proper Administration of Financial Resources

All business and financial functions of the institution should be centralized, preferably under a single business officer responsible to the president. The more important functions which should be performed by the chief business officer and his staff include assistance to the president in the preparation of the institutional budget, control of the budget, the establishment and operation of an appropriate system of accounting and financial reporting, the supervision of the operation and maintenance of physical plant, the procurement of supplies and equipment, the control of inventories, the financial management of auxiliary enterprises, and the receipt, custody, and disbursement of funds belonging to the institution. In accordance with policies carefully developed by the board of control, the endowment funds and other investments should be administered by an appropriate officer or committee designated by that board. On all of these matters the president should report regularly to the governing board.

The chief business officer should be appointed by the governing board, upon the nomination of the president of the institution. Because of the numerous and varied responsibilities centered in the business office, selection of this officer is an important factor in the effective business management of the institution. He should be a well educated person, experienced in handling educational business affairs. He should realize that the purpose of his office is to serve the institution and to assist in the furtherance of its educational program.

There should be a well conceived organizational plan assigning responsibilities of the various activities which together comprise the business office of the institution. The complexity of the required organization will depend upon the size of the institution and the volume of transactions of a business or a financial nature.

The chief business officer should be one of the principal administrative officers, along with those in charge of academic administration.

4. Educational Expenditures

In judging the adequacy of financial operations, basic educational and general expenditures shall be used. These expenditures will include, for the fiscal year, general administration and general expense, instruction and departmental research, libraries, and operation and maintenance of the physical plant. In computing the expenditure per student, the total basic educational and general expenditure is divided by the number of equivalent full-time students at the close of registration of the fall term.

The minimum expenditure, based upon the highest degree offered and the enrollment of the institution, shall be as follows:

Level of Offerings and Enrollment

Minimum Expenditures

Junior Colleges and Other Two-Year Institutions

0-200	$125,000
201-500	$125,000 plus $575 for every student in excess of 200
501 & Over	$297,500 plus $475 for every student in excess of 500

Bachelor's Level Institutions

201-500	$200,000 plus $850 for every student in excess of 200
501-1000	$455,000 plus $700 for every student in excess of 500
1001 & Over	$805,000 plus $550 for every student in excess of 1000

Master's Level Institutions

1001 & Over	$975,000 plus $700 for every student in excess of 1000

Doctor's Level Institutions

0-200	$300,000
201-500	$300,000 plus $1150 for every student in excess of 200
501-1000	$645,000 plus $1000 for every student in excess of 500
1001 & Over	$1,145,000 plus $850 for every student in excess of 1000

5. Budget Preparation

The budget is a statement of estimated income and expenditures for a fixed period of time, usually the fiscal year of the institution. The budget expresses in terms of dollars the educational program of the institution. Regardless of the size of the institution, an annual budget in appropriate detail is essential to proper operations. Since the annual budget is an expression of an educational program, its preparation and execution must be preceded by educational planning. It follows then that the instructional budget, for the most part, should be recommended by academic officers or deans, working closely with department heads and appropriate members of the faculty. Similarly, for other budget areas, recommendations should be made by the appropriate officers of the institution. The business officer assists in assembling and compiling the budget requests, prepares income estimates, and serves as a chief adviser to the president in the financial determination of budgetary allocations. The budget is presented by the president to the trustees for final approval. The review by the trustees should generally be limited to matters of broad policy and not matters involved with details. Preferably, forms should be devised by the institution which are used for the preparation of the budget and are made available to the various divisions of the institution which participate in the budget-making process.

6. Budget Control

After the budget has been approved by the president and adopted by the governing board, there should be a system of control. It is only in this way that plans of the governing board and the president with respect to the budget may be carried out, and it is only in this way that the institution can operate according to a preconceived plan. Periodically, the accounting officer should render interim budget statements to department heads for their guidance and assistance in staying within budgetary allocations. Budgetary control is an administrative function, not a board function.

7. The Relation of an Institution to External Budgetary Control

No educational institution is properly administered nor can it conduct a sound educational program when any agency or officer other than the controlling board, the president, and business officer exercises financial control. Once funds have been appropriated for the operation of an institution, budget making and control of expenditure should be entirely within the institution under the jurisdiction of the governing board. If a state budget officer or state comptroller or any other financial officer or body outside the institution exercises control over the expenditures of the institution, to that same degree such outside officers exercise control over the educational function. Such practices are a clear violation of the principles stated in these Standards.

8. Accounting, Reporting, and Auditing

The accounting system should follow the generally accepted principles of institutional accounting as they appear in Volume I, College and University Business Administration, published by The American Council on Education. An essential principle of the system of accounting is that the information derived therefrom can be reliably compared with information obtained from the records of other institutions. Desirable uniformity in reports can be approached through the establishment of uniform classifications as recommended in this volume.

The financial statement is a logical extension of the accounting system. If the accounting records are adequate, the preparation of the financial statement is a matter of reclassifying the information supplied by the books of record. Periodic written financial reports to the president are necessary for both the large and the small institution.

An annual audit with a certified report shall be made by competent accountants who are not directly connected with the institution. The accountants should be selected at least partially on the basis of their experience and knowledge of institutional accounting.

Complementing the accounting system and the external audit, there should be a well organized program of internal audit and control.

9. The Management of Income

There should be a suitable organization and adequate procedures for the management of all funds belonging to or owed to the institution. Normally, the cashing function should be centralized in the business office and there should be a carefully worked out system for the receipt, deposit, and safeguarding of institutional funds. All persons handling institutional funds should be bonded.

10. Purchasing and Control of Storerooms

For the institution which is large enough to justify a separate office for purchasing, as well as for the institution which is so small that its buying can be done by the chief business officer, it is essential to efficient operations that purchasing be done centrally. A logical adjunct of the purchasing function is a system of well organized storerooms, such as those for physical plant supplies, library supplies, and office supplies. It is advisable that there be established an inventory system on all of the equipment owned by the institution.

STANDARD FIVE

FACULTY

The selection, development, and retention of a competent faculty at all academic levels is of major importance to all institutions. The relationship between faculty objectives and institutional purposes determines in large measure the effectiveness of the total educational program. The institution should make known its purposes and objectives to prospective faculty members, as well as its expectations of them. This should be done in order that objectives sought by the faculty will be in harmony with the institutional purposes.

Provision should be made for adequate faculty participation in the development of academic policies. The organization should provide regular and open channels of communication among faculty and between faculty and administration, and should be broadly representative of the faculty as a whole.

The academic preparation and experience of the faculty are significant factors in determining the quality of a college or university and should be such as to further the purposes of the institution. The continuous professional growth of all members of the faculty should be encouraged, and the institution should assist members of the faculty to further their professional development.

If faculty members are to be effective teachers, they must have reasonable security. The institution should, therefore, provide faculty members with adequate salaries and a well planned program of benefits to enable them to live in dignity and comfort. The institution should provide salaries and benefits sufficient to enable it to attract and retain a faculty commensurate with the achievement of the institutional purposes. The faculty salaries and the program of benefits should be regularly and frequently re-examined to keep them current with changing economic and social conditions. The institution should further implement the security of the faculty with policies and procedures providing faculty tenure and safeguards for academic freedom.

The total responsibility of each member of the faculty to the institution should be determined in such a way that he can make his maximum contribution toward carrying out the purposes of the institution and, at the same time, enhance his own professional development.

In the final analysis, the performance of the faculty determines the academic quality of the institution. Each institution should provide for continuing evaluation of faculty performance and for equitable recognition of faculty effectiveness.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

1. Recruitment and Selection

Specific assignments of responsibility should exist for identifying, appraising, negotiating with, and selecting new faculty members. Criteria for prospective faculty members should be established which are consonant with the purposes of the institution and with continuous advancement in the academic quality of the institution. These criteria should reflect appropriate ~~minimums of~~ previous preparation and experience for the duties to be undertaken.

The institution should make an active and painstaking search for suitable faculty members and provide for adequate travel and other investigative expense for the appropriate officials. The search should include accumulation of ample information on each candidate considered.

Final authority for approval and selection of faculty members may vary widely, but the selection process should accord adequate weight to recommendations of various officials held responsible for the academic program. Ordinarily, selection should be made after appropriate interviews with the candidate.

The institution should make periodic evaluations of its recruitment and selection procedures and policies, and utilize the findings of such evaluations to modify institutional policies and conditions of faculty employment. The faculty salary scale should be flexible enough to permit employment and retention of individuals needed to upgrade the faculty.

2. Faculty Organization

The faculty of all institutions should be so organized that their business may be properly conducted. Faculty membership should be clearly defined.

In small institutions the faculty should be organized as a whole, but in complex institutions it may be by divisions, schools, or colleges. In complex institutions there should be an organization such as a senate or council which meets regularly, in order that the faculty may have an opportunity to deal with the academic concerns of the total institution.

The jurisdiction of the faculty in academic affairs should be clearly defined and should provide adequate scope for the exercise of faculty responsibility. The faculty should be concerned primarily with fundamental academic policies.

Provisions for open and regular channels of communication between faculties and administration should be established.

The rules and regulations relating to faculty organization, by-laws, and responsibilities should be recorded and accessible to all concerned.

3. Academic Preparation of Faculty

All teaching faculty members should have advanced degrees (master's degree specialization in the fields in which they teach). Any exception must be justified by special competence in the field of knowledge.

In all colleges at least forty per cent of the teaching faculty should possess professional preparation equivalent to two years of advanced study beyond the bachelor's degree. In senior colleges at least sixty per cent of the teaching faculty should possess professional preparation equivalent to three years of advanced study beyond the bachelor's degree and at least thirty per cent should hold the earned doctor's degree.

In junior colleges in any department composed of as many as four faculty members, at least one should possess professional preparation equivalent to three years of advanced study beyond the bachelor's degree. In senior colleges in any department or division composed of four or more faculty members, at least twenty-five per cent should have an earned doctorate. In any department or division offering a major or field of concentration, at least one member or twenty-five per cent, whichever is greater, should hold the earned doctorate in the area of concentration.

In the creative or applied arts or in any highly specialized professional or technical field, evidence of professional competency in the area of specialization is recognized and may be acceptable in lieu of advanced degrees.

The experience of the faculty within the institution should be such that it reveals a balanced total distribution among various accomplishments, as they relate to the objectives of the institution. Included among these should be successful teaching as evidenced by student accomplishment measured by data derived from examination or test scores, success in graduate schools, or similar sources; productive scholarship and research; effective participation in professional associations and scholarly societies; and contributions to improvement of the educational program of the institution.

4. Professional Growth

The academic environment of a college or university and the continuous professional growth of its faculty are inextricably bound together. The administration and the faculty should cooperate in providing opportunity for this professional growth. The institution should encourage professional development by affording opportunities, such as, leaves of absence for study and research, research facilities, membership in professional organizations, attendance at professional meetings and workshops, and inservice training. The general tone of the institution should be one in which the individual faculty member is expected and encouraged to exercise initiative in identifying and meeting his own professional growth needs.

5. Financial Security

Providing faculty salaries which reflect the importance and worth of college teaching in American society should always be an institutional goal. The salary scale should show steady progress toward this goal. In addition, the institution should have as an immediate goal the establishing of a salary structure which will place it in a reasonably competitive relationship to other colleges and universities. Intensive effort should be made to improve the salary structure if it is short of this immediate goal.

A program of benefits, including a sound retirement plan in which the institution participates and which protects the faculty members' equity, should be maintained.

Any institution in which faculty salaries are substantially below the average of comparable institutions must show that steps are being taken to improve its salary scale; otherwise, it must explain this discrepancy. An institution may wish to determine these averages from national publications, such as, Higher Education: Planning and Management Data, published annually by the Office of Education of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, or from statistics which the Commission may be able to supply.

6. Tenure and Academic Freedom

Tenure regulations for an institution should be established by the governing board in accordance with generally accepted practices and should be clearly stated in writing to the faculty. Each faculty member should be given written notice when he achieves tenure under the institution's policies. Retention of a faculty member who has not been given tenure calls for special justification.

The policies and procedures for the termination of appointments should be stated in writing and should be in accord with commonly accepted practices. Termination of non-tenure members of the teaching staff should be made only after adequate notice has been given. Termination of the appointments of those members of the staff with tenure should be made only for cause, and the individual should be fully protected with the proper safeguards.

The institution should adopt and record a statement of the principles of academic freedom to which it subscribes, and within these principles faculty members should be secure in their freedom of teaching and investigation and in their right to participate as responsible citizens in community activities. Nothing in this statement of principles is intended to protect an incompetent or negligent faculty member or to prevent the institution from making proper efforts to evaluate the work of each instructor. The tone of the institution, however, should be conducive to high faculty morale and a strong sense of faculty freedom and initiative.

7. Teaching Loads

The components of the work load of faculty members, and the relative weights assigned to each component, will vary from institution to institution, among divisions within a single institution, and between individual faculty members within a division. Each institution should have a concrete plan for the determination and distribution of work loads. It should demonstrate the plan's equity and reasonableness in relationship to what the individual faculty member is expected to do, and to the maintenance of scholastic quality in the teaching component of his total responsibility.

Faculty work load distributions for an institution should reflect its avowed purposes. If one of the purposes of an institution is the accomplishment of significant research, for example, it will be expected to show that ample time within its gross faculty work load is provided for research. An institution offering graduate degrees will also be expected to show sufficient time within its gross faculty work load as being available for faculty engagement in research.

In reporting its faculty work loads for purposes of this Standard each institution must show that a realistic amount of time is available in the sum-total of faculty work loads to care for the duties associated with institutional operation; that is, committee assignments, participation in administration, executive responsibility for institutional and divisional functions, duties of public and alumni relations, and assigned supervision of student activities.

In calculating the time value of the student instruction load assigned to each faculty member certain factors should be considered including the number of class contact hours, the number of preparations, the weekly student load, available help (such as secretarial, teaching assistants, and grading machines), and the amount of time engaged in research. The institution's plan for the determination and distribution of work loads should be subjected to periodic appraisal and revision.

The institution should have suitable policies to protect against the assumption of outside responsibilities by the faculty member which might cause encroachments upon either the quality or quantity of the work he is employed to perform by the institution.

8. Criteria and Procedures for Evaluation

Each institution should have a statement of the criteria against which performance of the individual faculty member will be evaluated. These criteria may vary from unit to unit, and between positions, but in total they should be consonant with the purposes of the institution. The criteria should be known and accepted by both the evaluating officials and the faculty, and be readily available to the faculty. Periodic appraisal using established criteria is essential and the institutional organization should establish definite and stated responsibility for both the criteria and procedures to be used in making such appraisals.

9. Promotions in Rank

In institutions in which faculty rank is employed, criteria for promotion based on factors in addition to years of experience should be adopted and understood by all concerned. Promotion procedures and policies should be such as to exercise a positive influence upon the morale and professional development of the faculty. They should reflect regard for rank as a recognition of quality of performance, and not as a substitute for salary.

10. Salary and other Recognitions

The institution should have established criteria and procedures for giving salary increments and other types of recognition.

STANDARD SIX

LIBRARY

The library is a vital instrument of instruction, not only in general education but also in the cultural development of students and faculty. The library should be administered as part of the academic program. This administration should include a well-trained professional staff with representatives of the teaching faculty acting in an advisory capacity. The staff should be alert to new curricular developments and needs. Services should be evaluated regularly to observe the library's effectiveness through the nature and extent of its use.

The book and periodical collection should, by quality, size, and nature, support and stimulate the entire educational program. Substantially stronger holdings should be required for graduate and research programs. The collections should be housed in a well-lighted, ventilated, sound-conditioned, and adequately equipped building, with a seating capacity sufficient to accommodate the needs of the students and faculty. The library should be open adequate and appropriate hours, and the books and periodicals, preferably in open stacks, should be organized for easy access, use, and preservation.

1. Supplementary Document

In conjunction with the Library Standard the following should be used as a reference: Library Statistics of Colleges and Universities, Institutional Data, (U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Office of Education, Library Services Branch). In using this reference, institutional authorities should consider it a serious danger signal if the library regularly falls in the lowest quarter of any of the categories analyzed.

2. Committee

There should be a proper academic committee concerned for the library which should include the librarian.

3. Records

Pertinent records shall be kept of acquisitions and library use.

4. Budget

The library budget shall cover the purchase, processing, and servicing of the collection of printed library materials. Special services or special materials (such as recordings, films, other audio-visual aids) demanded of and furnished by the library will require funds in addition to regular budgetary allotments.

5. Staff

The library should be adequately staffed by qualified librarians and skilled non-professional personnel, under the direction of a chief librarian who ranks with comparable administrative officers. Professional staff members should be accorded proper recognition, proportionate to their qualifications, experience, and duties. This recognition may consist of faculty rank and status, where appropriate, including comparable salaries and privileges.

The minimum number of professional librarians required is the number necessary to assume responsibility for administration, readers' services, and technical processes. The marks of a professional librarian are to be taken to include a graduate library degree from a recognized institution, participation in professional library organizations, and performance of duties of a professional nature. The non-professional staff should relieve librarians of work that is essentially clerical.

6. Collections

Faculty members are responsible for participation in book selection. The collections should be frequently tested against recent bibliographies and other standard guides.<sup>1</sup> Continuous weeding should be followed, with the advice of faculty concerned. An institution should be able to show that its library holdings reflect the purposes of the institution, the curricula offered, and the courses taught.

7. Buildings and Equipment

Proper library seating accommodations are needed for at least one-fourth of the largest number of students on the campus at any one period of the day. In areas of graduate study and research, carrels which may be individually assigned should be provided. Conference rooms and seminars are highly desirable, especially in libraries serving graduate schools.

8. Hours Open

Two and four year colleges should remain open for service a minimum of sixty hours per week, and universities eighty hours per week.

9. Service

Every possible barrier, whether physical or psychological, between patron and book should be eliminated. Any unusual demands on the library for service outside normal academic expectations should be evaluated and, if necessary, receive special support. Evaluation of services may be measured by study of statistical records or by spot checks and studies. The faculty should be invited, at periodic intervals, to criticize and comment upon library service.

STANDARD SEVEN

STUDENT PERSONNEL

All institutional members should have and should express a continuing concern for the total welfare of each student including his physical and mental health, development of capacities and talents, establishment of relationships with other persons, and motivation for progress in intellectual understanding. The institution should seek to know as much as possible about the background of its students and should keep this information current and appropriately confidential.

The institution should provide activities which not only will motivate the students toward significant academic achievement, but also will establish meaningful associations among students, faculty, and the administration and will furnish ample opportunities for the development of numerous individual talents.

In order to maintain quality in student personnel work, the student's records must be accurate, clear, and complete. The records should be readily accessible to those responsible for student guidance. These data, incorporating pertinent information from pre-college life, should extend through graduation and into alumni life.

Knowledge of and concern for the student's physical and mental health are of major importance. Effective guidance requires careful evaluation of abilities, interests, and plans. The program of orientation should establish an individual and personal relationship between the entering student and the institution as a whole—that is, its curricula, its range of extra-curricular activities, and its general educational objectives.

The value of student activities may be measured by the extent to which these activities contribute to the educational program of the institution. The entire program of student activities should be held under college supervision. Participation of students in such activities should be restricted to those who meet satisfactory academic standards of work. The athletic program of the college shall be organized under faculty supervision and it should meet ethical standards, as well as the prescribed regulations of the athletic conference or association of which the institution may be a member.

1. Administration

Careful evaluation should be made to determine the degree to which the administrative organization of the personnel program supports, contributes to, or detracts from the purpose and objectives of the institution. The size and location of the institution will also affect the pattern of organization for the administration of the student personnel program.

In order for the student personnel program to make its contribution to the total educational program, it requires the recognition, acceptance, and support of the administration and the faculty. Well trained, qualified people should be administratively responsible for the student personnel program and should enjoy comparable status to other university or college administrators.

2. Academic and Personal Records

Institutions shall have adequate student records but should be careful not to maintain unnecessary duplications. The registrar or other appropriate institutional official shall keep files of admissions and matriculation information, scholarship records, transcripts, and other essential data. Some of these records should be duplicated and other pertinent records should be developed and maintained by appropriate academic deans, directors, department heads, and any others charged with the responsibility of counseling.

3. Orientation

The orientation program should be flexible, challenging and current, and should include information that is meaningful and helpful to a student entering the academic experience. The program should be periodically evaluated.

4. Counseling

The institution, regardless of size, should make provisions for individual attention to students. Experienced counselors should be available to the student in reference to his academic, personal, and vocational problems. In some cases counseling in these areas may be shared by various administrators or faculty. In every case there should be a well developed program, which is periodically evaluated, and for which there is a clear designation of responsibility.

5. Health

The size, location, and nature of an institution will partly determine the extent to which it should provide for medical care. An adequate health record, made before or upon entrance, shall be a part of every student's file.

6. Athletics

In all institutions conducting formal programs of intercollegiate and intramural athletics these activities shall be a part of the total educational program of the institution, and the administration and the faculty shall have the responsibility for and control of all such activities. Admission procedures and requirements, including academic standards and curricular requirements for athletes, shall be the same as for other students.

Funds used to support all athletic programs shall be fully controlled by the administration and shall be reflected in an annual audit of the institution's financial records. Funds designed for instructional purposes shall not be diverted to the intercollegiate athletic program.

A program of intercollegiate and intramural athletics should provide a variety of opportunities for students who desire participation. Coaches and staff members employed in the athletic program shall have sufficient academic training and orientation to contribute to the educational objectives of the institution. Regular appraisal of the athletic program should be made to determine its value to the educational program of the institution.

7. Alumni

Every institution should keep current and accurate records of the addresses, occupations, and accomplishments of alumni. The effectiveness of an institution is revealed through the attitudes and achievements of those who have attended the institution. The relationship between the institution and the alumni should be one which encourages each alumnus to continue his interest in and to participate in the development of the institution.

STANDARD EIGHT

PHYSICAL PLANT

The physical facilities, including buildings, equipment, and campus, should be designed and maintained to serve the needs of the institution in relation to its stated purposes. There should be sufficient campus area to provide adequately for buildings and such activities as are related to the educational program of the institution. The physical facilities should be used as efficiently as possible in keeping with the educational program of the institution and the students it serves. The architectural design and appearance of the physical plant should be in harmony as far as practicable, and should be aesthetically compatible to the educational mission of the institution. A master plan for campus development should be maintained.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

1. Existing Plant Facilities

Each institution should establish with the assistance of competent consultants a master plan for the existing campus. A topographical map should be a part of this plan.

Sufficient rooms for classes of various sizes should be available to meet the instructional needs of the institution. These should be properly lighted and adequately equipped, heated, and ventilated for their purposes and their uses.

Thorough space utilization studies should be made to establish actual need before the addition of new plant facilities. Classrooms, laboratories, and other facilities should be properly scheduled for maximum utilization. Special programs requiring special facilities should not be offered unless the appropriate facilities are available.

Periodic studies should be made of the existing plant for the purpose of anticipating necessary renovation and eliminating, as far as possible, all hazards, including fire. Competent consultants should be utilized to determine the value of buildings and equipment for adequate insurance coverage.

Adequate landscaping should be utilized to divide the campus into attractive and useful areas. Satisfactory parking space should be available, and wherever practicable traffic should be banned from pedestrian areas.

2. Expansion of Plant Facilities

Expansion should be considered as a long range program so that plant development can proceed in an orderly sequence, thus eliminating many problems before they occur. The long range plan should include purchase of needed additional property prior to the actual demands for growth and expansion.

The campus development program should indicate space and function of campus activities in terms of long range planning. The location and accessibility of dormitories, dining halls, library, classrooms, and other facilities should be carefully considered and become a part of the master plan. As far as feasible, the long range plan should determine the general design of new buildings so that architectural harmony can be maintained.

It is strongly recommended that administrative officers and faculty members who are to occupy or direct the activities in new buildings be consulted during the planning stages. For example, librarians should be consulted in planning libraries and other professional people should be consulted in planning buildings used for technical purposes.

In the planning and construction of classroom buildings, consideration should be given to changing instructional methods which may be reflected in changes of classroom size, in the use of teaching devices, or both.

3. Maintenance

The duties and responsibilities for plant and campus maintenance should be clearly defined and specifically assigned. There should also be clear lines of responsibility for campus security, fire protection, and traffic safety.

In the interest of efficiency and economy the cost of maintenance and housekeeping should be evaluated and compared with the data and experience of other institutions. High standards of housekeeping, preventive maintenance, cleanliness, and care of grounds should be observed.

When they are a part of the institutional operations, utilities such as water, power, and sewerage should be properly and efficiently maintained and these systems should be adequate and capable of expansion.

STANDARD NINE

SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

Many institutions have developed a variety of supplemental and special educational programs in an attempt to fulfill their stated objectives and their responsibilities to their constituents. Such programs may be identified as special activities relative to branches, centers, extension classes, correspondence and home study, foreign travel and study, conferences, institutes, short courses, workshops, special evening classes, special summer sessions, and television and radio.

The Standards of the College Delegate Assembly apply directly to all programs involving academic credit; in addition, specific criteria and definitions may be designed for certain programs assigned to the category of special activities. It shall be the responsibility of the parent institution to justify all special activities (for credit or not for credit) within the framework of its stated purposes and objectives. All special activities programs must be integral parts of the total educational program of the parent institution.

The accreditation of the institution is affected by the quality of each program or course. Special activities shall always be critically evaluated and judged by the College Delegate Assembly as a part of its function in granting or reaffirming accreditation of the total institution.

1. Branch

A branch is a degree-granting division or unit of an institution, located in a geographical setting separated from the parent institution, and authorized by charter for a stated purpose in relation to the parent institution and the area served. A branch has planned programs leading to undergraduate, graduate, or professional degrees which are granted by or in the name of the parent institution.

A branch shall have such programs, financial resources, library, and physical facilities that it may be evaluated essentially as an autonomous institution in terms of the Standards of the College Delegate Assembly, although it need not request individual membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

Its organization shall include a full-time chief administrative officer and other administrative officers as are needed for such areas as finance, academic affairs, and student affairs. The chief officer shall be directly responsible to the head of the parent institution who shall determine to what extent control or direction will be exercised by the faculty and administration of the parent institution.

A branch shall have a majority of full-time faculty. It shall have sufficient financial resources, appropriated directly by the parent institution, or through income from tuition, or through either one or a combination of these, to operate independently and to carry out its educational program.

For the purpose of identification, the parent institution must indicate on its transcripts the name of the campus on which the courses or degrees are completed.

2. Center

A center is a non-degree-granting division or unit of an institution, located in a geographical setting separated from the parent institution and established for a stated purpose in relation to the parent institution and to the area served. The center shall have a pattern or sequence of courses which leads to terminal programs or degrees on the parent campus or at other degree-granting institutions.

The center shall operate under the supervision of an administrative officer responsible to the parent institution. Its admission requirements and procedures, courses to be offered, and faculty shall have the approval and be under supervision of the appropriate departments on the home campus. Each course offered shall have physical facilities (including space and equipment) and library holdings equivalent to those required for the same course on the home campus. Academic requirements and instructional quality shall be equivalent to those maintained at the parent campus.

For purpose of identification, the parent institution must indicate on its transcripts the name of the center where courses are completed.

3. Extension

A course taught by extension is one offered in an off-campus temporary setting, with students and instructor in class attendance. The content and quality of each course, the admission requirements, the preparation of the faculty, and the adequacy of physical facilities should be recognized as college policy matters and as reflecting the integrity of the institution. Care should be exercised in the selection of courses for this type of program. Courses requiring laboratories or extended library study should not be approved unless facilities equal to those expected on the home campus are available.

Courses taken by extension must be so identified on transcripts of student records. Although the specific amount of degree credit which may be earned through extension classes is decided by each institution, it may not exceed one-third of the total hours required for a degree.

4. Correspondence and Home Study

The institution should safeguard the quality of correspondence courses as vigilantly as it safeguards on-campus instruction in regular classes and, in addition, it should take the necessary steps to offset any weaknesses resulting from this method of instruction. Academic standards in correspondence courses shall be comparable with standards in on-campus classes as shown by tests and examinations requiring comparable achievement for degree credit.

Courses taken by correspondence and home study must be so identified on transcripts of student records. Although the specific amount of degree credit which may be earned through correspondence and home study is decided by each institution, it may not exceed one-fourth of the total hours required for a degree.

5. Foreign Travel and Study

Credit shall not be permitted for travel per se, nor shall credit be allowed for commercial programs designed by commercial firms. Degree credit shall be granted only for residence abroad involving an academic program supplemented by seminars, readings, reports, or similar academic exercises based on the same criteria for credit as independent study on the campus. Special attention should be directed to the quality of the academic programs at the foreign institution or institutions. The amount of credit to be awarded should be fully determined by the faculty in advance of the travel.

2-The recommendations of the National Committee of Regional Accrediting Agencies related to principles of good practice in programs of foreign Study may be obtained from the office of the Commission.

Courses taken by foreign travel and study must be so identified on transcripts of student records. Although the specific amount of degree credit which may be earned through foreign travel and study is decided by each institution, it may not exceed one-fourth of the total hours required for a degree.

6. Conferences, Institutes, Short Courses, Workshops, Special Evening Classes, and Special Summer Sessions

The amount of credit for each course shall be determined through the regular channels and committees of the institution. The institution should safeguard the quality of these programs as vigilantly as it safeguards instruction in regular classes. Academic standards shall be comparable with standards in regular classes as shown by tests and examinations requiring comparable achievement for degree credit.

The designation of evening classes in this category does not refer to evening classes which are an integral part of the curriculum and an extension of the day schedule. Summer sessions that represent equivalents of the regular session should be considered part of the general curriculum and program.

For purposes of identification, it is recommended that the course title or description carry the designation of type, such as, institute, workshop, conference. Although the specific amount of degree credit which may be earned in this category is decided by each institution, it may not exceed one-fourth of the total hours required for a degree.

7. Television and Radio

Television, in this category, pertains to open-circuit television instruction which originates off the campus or which is transmitted from the campus to outside receivers. It does not pertain to closed-circuit television courses.

The amount of credit for each course shall be determined through the regular channels and committees of the institution. The institution should safeguard the quality of these programs as vigilantly as it safeguards instruction in regular classes. Academic standards shall be comparable with standards in regular classes as shown by tests and examinations requiring comparable achievement for degree credit.

Courses taken by television and radio must be so identified on transcripts of student records. Although the specific amount of degree credit which may be earned by television and radio is decided by each institution, it may not exceed one-fourth of the total hours required for a degree.

8. Credit Limitations

At least one-fourth of the credits required for a degree from the institution must be earned in residence at the home campus or at a branch of the institution. No more than one-half of the credit requirements for an undergraduate degree may be fulfilled through an accumulation of credits in categories three through seven above. For limitations on graduate credits in the categories of Special Activities see the Standard for Graduate Program.

STANDARD TEN

GRADUATE PROGRAM

A graduate program comprises a course of study beyond the baccalaureate level usually leading to an advanced degree. An institution inaugurating, continuing, or expanding a graduate program should have curricula and resources available beyond those provided for the undergraduate college. Since the quality and excellence of graduate instruction should be of constant concern to every institution offering graduate work, it is essential that the provisions for graduate instruction should include an adequate administrative organization, a competent faculty in the major and supporting fields, and library and laboratory facilities consonant with the programs offered. An institution contemplating the inauguration of a program at a higher degree level should inform the Executive Secretary of the Commission at least one year in advance and arrange for a preliminary advisory study by the Commission before undertaking the program.

The graduate tradition of an institution is based on the careful selection and the stability of staff, teaching quality and scholarly productivity on the part of the faculty, and well-defined principles and practices governing the selection and retention of students. It is important that graduate work be characterized by flexibility, the use of unique abilities, and the production of well trained graduates. The value of graduate work is to be judged by the quality of the product; consequently, a program of continuous evaluation of graduate instruction should be undertaken by an institution so as to maintain and improve the qualitative standards of its work.

A distinction between undergraduate and graduate work should be observed. Although this does not entail a complete separation of these fields of instruction, courses or curricula classified as graduate necessarily involve research relative to such programs. There are many divergent conceptions of research. It is not a mere gathering and organizing of facts and opinions. Research is a discriminating activity of well informed minds concerned with the discovery of new truth, with the critical examination of the evidential basis of knowledge that is accepted as true and believed to be true, with the correction of error, and with the application of both old and new truth to the uses of mankind. Research and training in research are fundamental in all graduate programs.

Graduate work should not be undertaken unless the academic integrity of the undergraduate program can be maintained and financial support for superimposed graduate studies is unusually strong. Institutions embarking upon new programs or expanding existing programs should appraise critically the resources at their disposal and study the effects of graduate work on the undergraduate program. Graduate education is expensive and institutions engaged in it should take into consideration national estimates of average per student cost in this field of instruction.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

GENERAL

1. Administrative Organization

Institutional organization should recognize the graduate program as having a separate identity. All policies and regulations affecting graduate curricula and work leading to graduate degrees should be formulated by a graduate faculty, or graduate council, or similar body representing those concerned with graduate instruction. Within this framework there should be provided a well-defined mechanism for determining qualifications for membership in the graduate faculty. Some arrangement or procedure also should exist within the graduate organization by which graduate programs can be reviewed, approved, and re-evaluated.

2. Graduate Faculty

The members of a graduate faculty shall hold the highest terminal earned degrees or the clear equivalent in their fields, shall have avowed interest in graduate instruction, shall have experience in teaching advanced subjects, and shall be productive scholars.

3. Library, Laboratory, and Other Facilities

Institutions offering an advanced degree only at the master's level shall have library and laboratory resources adequate for the curricula offered and for the introduction of the student to research in each subject offered in the program. For institutions offering graduate instruction beyond the master's degree, and including doctoral programs, these resources should be distinguished in excellence and should provide means for the accomplishment of graduate enterprises of major importance.

The library shall be an instrumentality of research with a book and periodical collection providing students with the means of attaining a mastery of the literature, history, and research materials of their subjects. In the scientific fields, laboratories shall be equipped for special experimentation. In the provision of adequate resources there should be continuous cooperation among the institution's budgetary authorities, the library administration, and the graduate school and faculty. The fact and character of this cooperation can be significant criteria for the appraisal of institutions.

4. Admission and Retention of Students

The maintenance of the ideal of excellence in graduate study carries with it the obligation to select and admit, retain and encourage, as student candidates only those qualified to accomplish work of graduate character. In addition to the critical appraisal of academic transcripts and other formal credentials submitted by the applicant as evidence of fitness for admission, the practice is commended that applicants take and attain satisfactory scores on the Graduate Record Examinations or similar tests. The admission policy of an institution is one of the criteria for accreditation.

Equally important are the principles governing the retention of students. If, prior to admission to candidacy for a graduate degree, or if, during residence as a degree candidate, a student does not maintain a consistently satisfactory level of achievement, he should be advised to discontinue graduate work. Admission to candidacy for a graduate degree should be based on a critical appraisal of the student's academic performance and his scholarly potential.

To maintain the integrity of graduate work in extension courses, the admission of students, quality of instruction, library, and laboratory facilities shall be in conformity with on-campus practices. The transfer of credit to degree programs from recognized institutions and from extension courses shall be restricted so that residence requirements will not be diminished. The unity of the student's program, the intellectual stimulation derived from contacts with his fellow graduate students, and the advantages inherent in close association with the faculty can be best achieved by observing this principle.

MASTER'S DEGREES

1. Admission

The applicant must possess a bachelor's degree from a recognized institution of higher learning. If the undergraduate institution is not accredited by a regional accrediting agency, additional criteria should be used to safeguard the admission process. The applicant shall present a transcript which, for unconditional admission, shall show a sufficient and satisfactory undergraduate preparation in the major field.

2. Candidacy

Admission to candidacy for the degree should not take place until the student has demonstrated ability (during a semester or quarter of residence or an equivalent period of residence in summer terms) to accomplish work of a graduate character.

3. Program Requirements

The candidate must complete twenty-four to thirty semester hours of graduate work in courses with grades representing a satisfactory level of achievement. In a program requiring a thesis, a minimum of twenty-four semester hours of credit shall be earned exclusive of thesis. In a program in which no thesis is required, there shall be a minimum of thirty semester hours. At least one-half of the courses included for the student's degree program shall be those designated as exclusively graduate and the remainder of the degree courses shall be open only to upper division and graduate students. At least one-half of the credits offered for the degree shall be in a single field of concentration.

For the degrees of master of arts and master of science, the requirements of a modern foreign language and a thesis are highly desirable. For the master's degree of a professional nature, other requirements might logically be substituted for a modern foreign language and a thesis. For example, the master of arts in teaching may not use the same criteria but will have a program designed to meet its specific purpose.

4. Credits by Transfer, Extension Study, or Correspondence

Each institution shall develop its own regulations with regard to transfer and extension credit within the limitations specified below.

Except in cases of planned coordinated inter-institutional programs, not more than six semester hours of graduate credit taken on campus or through extension in a different but recognized institution may be transferred and credited to the master's degree.

Graduate credit not exceeding twelve semester hours may be accepted from extension study in a program under the direction of the degree-granting institution, but such credit may not be applied to reduce on-campus residence.

Not more than a total of twelve semester hours of extension and transferred graduate credit may be accepted towards the master's degree.

No credits toward a graduate degree may be obtained by correspondence study.

5. Minimum Residence

At least eighteen semester hours or the equivalent must be completed on the campus of the degree-granting institution.

6. Comprehensive Examination

A comprehensive examination, either oral or written or both, shall be passed by the candidate covering at least the field of concentration and the thesis, if a thesis is required.

DOCTOR'S DEGREES

1. Admission

Unqualified admission to the Graduate School of possible and prospective candidates shall anticipate in a formal sense the same minimum standard as candidates for the master's degree; namely, the possession by the applicant of a bachelor's degree from a recognized institution and the presentation of a transcript showing a sufficient undergraduate preparation for advanced work in both major and minor fields. The undergraduate preparation shall be broad enough to provide an adequate foundation for graduate work. Adequate preparation shall be attested by the transcript of formal courses and credits and this evidence should be supplemented by an acceptable report on the Graduate Record Examinations or comparable tests. Major departments should be encouraged to establish screening examinations of their own for their information and guidance, as well as for a basis of their recommendations for the admission of students to the Graduate School.

2. Acceptance of Credits in Post-Baccalaureate Programs

The courses of study in pursuance of candidacy for the master's degree, or the first year of graduate study, if properly planned, may be applied in partial fulfillment of requirements for the doctoral degree.

3. The First Two Years of Graduate Study

The courses of study should be planned by a committee appointed by the dean of the Graduate School, or by the departmental committee on graduate instruction of the major department. This plan should aim at giving the student a mastery of the major field; and, in case a minor is required, the plan should enable the student to make sufficient progress in satisfaction of that requirement to keep the program as a whole in balance. During these two years, the student with faculty advice should have selected a topic for the dissertation and should have made sufficient exploration in the bibliography and materials of the subject to be able to demonstrate the feasibility of the project. By the end of this period any foreign language requirement should have been satisfied and the qualifying examination passed.

4. Course Requirements

The aim of the doctoral program should be to afford instruction and guidance leading to the mastery of a major field. Although independent study on the part of the student is essential to every doctoral candidacy, formal course work is of indisputable value; it reduces the labor of a student; it should bring the student into scholarly relationship with members of the graduate faculty and demonstrate how accepted knowledge of a subject is evidentially supported. Specific course requirements, as deemed necessary, should be stipulated by the student's advisory committee. When the minor is required—which is a supporting subject, selected and constructed for precise purposes, and which is composed of courses—a specific course requirement is proper.

5. Major and Minor

It should be the responsibility and obligation of the departments established within the Graduate School to define the fields in which majors may be offered within their respective areas of instruction. The general content and scope of these majors should be subject to the confirmation of the graduate council or similar body. It is to be understood that the limits and scope of the majors so defined are subject to expansion to satisfy the interests of students; but the majors should be so thoughtfully framed or reframed that contraction of the limits and scope should not be permitted in individual programs. The unswerving integrity of the major is to be commended. Nothing in the foregoing is to be interpreted as opposition to interdepartmental majors. In the construction of majors, departments and Graduate Schools should avoid the diffuseness that would vitiate specialization and the compression that would cause over-specialization. The widespread practice of requiring a minor in a department allied to the major, to the dissertation subject, or the interest of the candidate is recommended. The minor courses, if required, should be selected within a related but distinct field. If minor courses from more than one department are proposed, the selection of these courses should be subject to the approval of the Graduate School.

6. The Requirement of Foreign Languages

During the first two graduate years and preferably during the first year, the prospective candidate for a doctor's degree which has language requirements should satisfactorily complete such requirements. These languages are thought of as instruments of research and as a means of affording continuing access to materials and literature of foreign culture and scholarship; and their use in these relationships should be exercised as a matter of common practice. This reading knowledge shall be tested in adequate examinations by the pertinent language departments or by a foreign language committee. These examinations should test the ability of the student to read selected passages from the literature of the major subject. The French, German, and Russian languages are endorsed as those most generally useful. With the approval of the Graduate School, the department of the major may, however, on the grounds of greater pertinence to the student's interests and program of study, recommend any modern foreign language as a substitute for one of these, but approval of such substitution rests with the Graduate School. All language requirements must have been satisfied prior to the preliminary or qualifying examination and prior to admission to candidacy for the degree.

Although a reading knowledge of two foreign languages is usually required for the Doctor of Philosophy degree, statistics and other tools of research are sometimes accepted in lieu of one or both language requirements in other doctoral programs.

7. The Preliminary or Qualifying Examination

At least one academic year prior to the time when the degree is expected to be conferred and ordinarily not earlier than the accomplishment of two full years of graduate work, the student should undertake the preliminary or qualifying examination. On the basis of this examination, the student is to be recommended or not for admission to candidacy. This examination should be designed to fulfill several purposes. An examining committee, appointed especially for each candidate, should inquire into the feasibility of the dissertation project. The examination should cover subjects and courses of both major and minor fields and should be a rigid test of the student's competence and knowledge. It should be an inquiry of the student's mastery of bibliography and of his powers of bibliographical criticism; further, it should give particular attention to subjects or courses taken in other institutions for which transfer credit is proposed. The examination should afford the examiners the basis for constructive recommendations as to subsequent programs of studies, if any, to be undertaken by the student. When the student passes this examination and all other conditions are fulfilled, the examiners shall recommend to the Graduate School admission to candidacy. Credit for the preliminary examination shall not be transferable.

8. Admission to Candidacy

The formal act of admission to candidacy shall be a function of the Graduate School. This should be a serious act of responsibility, and the administrative authorities of the Graduate School should be able to attest to the fulfillment of all conditions attached to the act of admission.

9. Transfer of Credit

Credit for work accomplished in recognized institutions is transferable or not, according to each institution's policy. Credit for work that might be transferable may be determined before or after admission to candidacy. In any case a definite part of either the preliminary examination or the final oral examination should be devoted to the testing of the student's mastery of the subjects involved and should be the method of validating such credit.

10. Residence Requirements

The minimum residence requirement for the doctoral degree shall be three academic years beyond the bachelor's degree or their equivalent in shorter units of academic residence. The student should be required to spend at least one full academic year beyond the first year of graduate study in continuous residence. The transfer work from a recognized graduate school should carry with it transfer of residence credit. Residence credit, however, may not be transferred unless there is also transfer of course work. Graduate residence credit may not therefore be established in fulfillment of requirements for the doctor's degree unless the graduate work accomplished in such periods of residence is embodied in the accepted program leading to the doctor's degree.

11. The Dissertation

The dissertation, required of all candidates for the doctoral degree, should be concerned with a well defined problem lending itself to a study of reasonable length, and it should represent a synthesis of materials more than a compilation of facts. It is recommended that the dissertation be prepared under the direction of a special committee whose supervision should be such that the dissertation will be of reasonable scope. It should comply with the rules of form prescribed by the Graduate School. The institutions conferring the degrees may require the dissertation to be printed for publication or submitted in typewritten form. In the spirit of safeguarding the interests of the student in this form of literary property, consideration should be given to copy-righting.

12. The Final Examination

There shall be a final oral examination which should be directed primarily to the defense of the dissertation. This examination should be administered by a committee appointed by the dean of the Graduate School.

STANDARD ELEVEN

RESEARCH

As long as colleges and universities have been established, members of their faculties have made significant contributions through the discovery of new knowledge. The zest for discovery of truths as well as for the communication of knowledge is an essential characteristic of an atmosphere conducive to the development of scholarship.

For adequate support of his individual research program, the teacher-investigator must frequently seek funds from outside sources. In recent years ever-increasing financial support for research has been made available through private and governmental agencies. Such contractual or sponsored research has become an integral part of the activities of colleges and universities today.

Policies relative to research should insure conformity of this activity to the stated purposes of the institution, provide an appropriate balance between research and instruction, and guarantee control of administration of the research by the institution. The investigator's freedom in research, including direction and communication of results, should be preserved.

In using funds from contracts, grants, and contributions in support of research, the institution should not become dependent upon that portion allowed for indirect or overhead cost in support of its regular operating budget.

ILLUSTRATIONS AND INTREPRETATIONS

1. Administration

Although many advantages accrue to institutions from research support possibilities through private and governmental agencies, problems often arise through research contract and grant procedures and administration. As a means of dealing with these problems, the administration of research should provide for conformity of research activities to the stated purposes of the institution.

Responsibility for contractual research should be related to departmental administration. If departmental administration fails to provide leadership, lack of morale and lack of coordination of activities can result.

The institution should have a clear policy relative to the division of responsibility between research and other activities. Certainly each institution may set up its own policy, but it seems essential that some policy be established and that all concerned conform to the stated policy.

The institution should develop definite policies relative to summer salaries paid from contract and grant funds, to salary supplements during the regular academic year, and to research consultative services undertaken by faculty members. These policies may well vary from institution to institution, but again a clearly understood policy is needed.

Administration of research contracts and grants should attempt to minimize the amount of time utilized by the teacher-investigator in seeking support for and in administering individual research contract and grant programs. Much time can be saved him if the administrative organization within the institution provides relief for as much responsibility as possible in administrative matters.

2. Institutional Control

In accepting funds from outside agencies, the institution must maintain control of its policies relative to research and instruction. Many agencies attach rather stringent regulations directing and limiting the character of research if they provide funds to support it. The rapid growth in acquisition of research grants from and contracts with outside agencies can endanger the institutional control of its activities unless this prerogative of the college or university is carefully guarded.

Continuity of support for general institutional research activities should not be endangered through the acquisition of research contracts and grants. Grants are given and contracts are made for limited lengths of time. When and if the institution becomes dependent, even partially, upon such funds for faculty salaries or graduate fellowship and assistantship stipends in support of graduate programs, termination of grants or contracts may mean the entire educational program, as well as the research activities, would be seriously jeopardized.

3. Primacy of Teaching Obligations

Discharging responsibility to granting agencies must not reduce teaching effectiveness on the part of the teacher-investigator. The faculty member receiving support from without the university for his research program naturally feels responsible to the granting agency to accomplish the research expected, but teaching obligations must not be neglected in order that this responsibility be discharged.

4. Faculty Morale

Care should be exercised that support from outside agencies in some areas within the college or university does not affect adversely the faculty morale in other areas through development of jealousies. If teaching loads are reduced so that obligations to outside agencies may be satisfied, resentment on the part of persons in other areas, or even in the same area, can be a significant basis for low morale. The administrative officers of the institution should provide research support and time for those who are not in a position to seek grants.

5. Expenditure of Research Funds

An institution has the prerogative of developing its own policy of purchasing procedures and, in general, purchases with contract funds should conform to the established procedural policy. Most granting agencies state clearly that purchasing procedures using grant funds must conform to the institution's policies; however, it is not essential that policies governing expenditures of research funds be the same as those governing expenditures of general funds.

6. Freedom of Investigation

The elements inherent in undertaking "classified" research should not tend to destroy the principles of freedom of investigation and of reporting results. This freedom has always been a sacred prerogative of faculties of educational institutions of higher learning, whether privately or publicly supported.

SESSIONS OF THE COMMISSION ON SECONDARY SCHOOLS AND THE SCHOOL DELEGATE ASSEMBLY

FIRST MEETING OF THE SCHOOL DELEGATE ASSEMBLY

The first session of the School Delegate Assembly at the Seventy-Second Annual Meeting of the Association was called to order by Commission Chairman James B. Massey, Jr. at 2:00 p.m. on November 27 in the Grand Ballroom of the Statler Hilton Hotel in Dallas. The invocation was given by Robert S. Lyle, Headmaster of the Hockaday School, and Association President William L. Pressly brought the official greetings of the Southern Association to the delegates. Following these greetings, Chairman Massey announced the membership of routine committees which would be expected to report later in the week and called attention to the order of business for the session.

Through the Association's usual news releases during the fall and in state meetings, delegates had been advised repeatedly that the only order of business for the session on November 27 would be that of adopting amendments to the Commission's proposed standards. Chairman Massey reminded delegates of the primary purpose of the business session and called on Prof. L. Tennent Lee, chairman of the Standards Committee, and Dr. Joseph Johnston, who served as Commission Chairman during the period the proposed standards were evolved, to handle this phase of the annual session. He also introduced Dr. Gusta Nance, Southern Methodist University, as parliamentarian for the occasion.

Delegates were reminded that only amendments which had been presented at the appointed time to the Committee on Standards or which might be introduced from the floor according to procedures previously defined by the Administrative Council were to be considered. The proposed standards, as amended at Dallas, then were to be submitted to member schools within ninety days of the close of the convention for a mail ballot and were to be voted on within ten days of receipt of the ballots. Should any of the proposed standards fail of adoption, it was pointed out, present standards would continue in force wherever applicable. The new standards, technically, would be in force upon written approval by a majority of the membership. Delegates were advised, however, that the length of time being allowed for handling adoption of the standards by mail ballot would mean that they could not be applied in full measure until the 1968-69 school year.

With these explanations, Dr. Johnston then called on Prof. L. Tennent Lee to submit the amendments, item-by-item, to the Delegate Assembly. These were discussed fully, with a majority being accepted, and some editorial changes were approved as discussion pointed up the need, in some instances, for greater clarity. The Committee on Standards itself recommended the deletion of Section 6 under Policies of Accreditation and Standard 3 of Principle E.

Both recommendations were approved. All amendments to standards, approved either on the afternoon of November 27 or on a call for special business at the final session on November 29, are listed herewith in full.

AMENDMENTS TO PROPOSED STANDARDS

PRINCIPLE B, Standard 8 (Changes shown in italics)

8. (a) Each member school shall provide a library program of instructional materials service, adequate in quantity and quality to supply the instructional resources (printed and audio-visual) to assure opportunities for breadth and depth in learning necessary to develop the personal growth of those served by the school. The library materials shall include a basic book and periodical collection as recommended by State and National Groups which State Committees of the Commission on Secondary Schools recognize for this purpose. (Remainder of proposed standard unchanged.)

PRINCIPLE E, Standard 1

The administrative head of the system (superintendent, president, etc.) and of the school (principal, headmaster, etc.) shall have earned a graduate degree from an institution approved by the Association or other regional accrediting agencies. Further, he shall have earned at least fifteen (15) semester hours of graduate credit with emphasis on administration and supervision either as a part of the master's program or in addition thereto. (An administrative head of a school or school system in office prior to the school year 1957-1958 who has served continuously in the same position will not be affected by the foregoing portions of this standard.) As a further requirement, each administrative person shall earn at least six (6) semester hours of graduate credit, or the equivalency as approved by his state committee, during each five-year period of employment until he shall have earned an additional thirty (30) semester hours of graduate credit above the master's degree or until he has reached age 60, whichever comes first. (The above requirement shall not apply to the Administrative Head of the system or the Administrative Head of the School who is in office prior to the school year 1968-69 and who continues to serve in that same Position.) Beyond this point, each administrator is encouraged to continue his professional growth.

Standard 2, (a)

Sufficient professional staff shall be assigned to a school to provide a maximum pupil-professional staff ratio for the school years 1968-69 and 1969-70 of 24:1. For the school years 1970-71 and 1971-72, this ratio shall be 23:1. Beginning with the school year 1972-73 and thereafter, the pupil-professional staff ratio shall be 22:1.

Standard 2, (c)

Each member of the instructional staff shall be required to earn at least six (6) semester hours of college credit during each five-year period of employment or the equivalency as approved by the State Committee until he has earned thirty (30) semester hours of graduate credit or until he has reached the age of 60, whichever comes first. These six semester hours or their equivalency shall be in those areas of work designed to increase the competency of the teacher in the area or grade level being taught. Beginning with the school year 1972-73 and each school year thereafter, at least 25 per cent of the instructional staff shall have earned a master's degree or be engaged in a program leading to such a degree.

PRINCIPLE F, Standard 2

The school's salary schedule should be so planned that the remuneration of the members of its staff will be commensurate to the importance of their services, and will be adequate to insure a standard of living comparable with the social and professional demands made on them. Salaries paid to superintendents of systems, including member schools, shall in every case be at a higher monthly and annual rate than that paid to the principal or other members of the administrative staff. Salaries paid to principals of member schools shall in every case be at a higher monthly and annual rate than that paid to any member of the faculty. Any reduction of the salary of a person in order to meet this standard will constitute a violation of the standard. A minimum annual salary of $4,500 for teachers and a minimum average salary of $5,500 are required with the beginning of the school year 1968-69. Beginning with the school year 1970-71, these figures shall be $5,100 and $6,000 respectively. For the school year 1972-73 and thereafter, the minimum annual salary for teachers shall be $5,700 and the minimum average salary shall be $6,500.

FIFTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING OF COMMISSION

The Commission on Secondary Schools was called to order in its annual session by its Vice Chairman, Vincent McGuire, at 9:00 a.m. on November 28 in the Grand Ballroom of the Statler

Hilton. The invocation was given by Dr. James H. Goettee, Director of Secondary Schools for Houston, and the Executive Secretary was called on to describe plans for the annual luncheon that day for heads of schools being proposed for initial accreditation. He also called attention to the six discussion groups scheduled for the afternoon.

The principal speaker of the morning was Prof. Ralph B. Kimbrough, University of Florida, who spoke on factors involved in identifying the power structures in a community which affect educational decisions, on the need for the administrator to become involved in proper political decision-making, and the great responsibility for quality education faced more and more by both citizens and the profession.

In the business session which followed, several committees submitted their usual reports for the Commission to handle or to transmit the following day to the Delegate Assembly. The Central Reviewing Committees reported favorably on the re-accreditation of 2,944 secondary schools and proposed 147 for initial accreditation. They recommended dropping from membership 86 schools for inability to meet minimum standards or for such other reasons as discontinuance, consolidation, or failure to re-apply.

In addition to accepting these reports for action or for referral to the School Delegate Assembly, the Commission received the nominations from State Committees to fill vacancies on the Commission. These, as duly elected the following day by the Delegate Assembly, are listed herewith.

Following the report of the Central Reviewing Committee, other standing and ad hoc committees filed their reports wherever appropriate. Dr. W. R. Goodson, Chairman of the Committee on Latin American Relations, cited continued progress in working with the accredited schools in Latin America and emphasized again the valuable help provided the Association by the Office of Overseas Schools of the United States Department of State. Other agencies, such as the Regional Educational Agencies Project on International Education, universities, and certain of the Regional Educational Laboratories, were described as quite supportive and five bi-national schools were recommended for initial accreditation. With their acceptance into membership, the total number of American-type schools now accredited by the Southern Association in Latin America numbers 41.

Chairman Massey next called on the Chairman of the Audit Committee, John McDonald, and the following report of his committee was accepted.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON AUDIT

Your committee composed of Dr. C. A. Sidden of the South Carolina Committee, Mr. C. C. Miller of the Texas Committee, and Mr. John J. McDonald of the Florida Committee, Chairman, has examined the audit reports from each of the states. We find that all audits were made by a C.P.A., and that each auditor certified the accounts of each state committee to be in order. Your committee also noted that the audits conformed to the outline which had been furnished by Dr. Raymond G. Wilson. Dr. Wilson and his staff are to be commended for the efficient manner in which the records are kept.

The audit committee would like to recommend that, while audits were found to be in excellent condition, consideration be given to the adoption of a policy that the person in each state responsible for Southern Association of Colleges and Schools funds be under the same general bonding policy as that of the Association.

John J. McDonald, Chairman
C. A. Sidden
C. C. Miller

As a final item of business, Shelby Counce, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, submitted the following slate of nominees for election. There being no nominations from the floor, the slate of officers was duly elected and the session was adjourned.

COMMISSION ON

ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMISSION ON ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

The Commission on Elementary Schools was created on December 1, 1965 by the Association at its annual meeting in Richmond, Virginia. The organization of the Commission was completed on December 1, 1966 with election of its membership. As outlined in the By-Laws of the Association, the Commission is composed of seventy-seven persons, seven from each of the eleven states served by the Association.

The internal structure of the Commission consists primarily of its Executive Council and three standing committees: (1) Central Reviewing Committee; (2) Committee on Programs of School Improvement; and (3) the Committee on Standards. Other committees are appointed as necessary.

Because of the newness of the Commission, a few of the highlights for elementary education in the Association between the authorization of the Cooperative Study in Elementary Education in 1946 and the election of the membership of the Commission in 1966 will be included here. Due to the central role of the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education in the development of the Commission, and the continuing importance of its school improvement activities, major emphasis will be placed on the activities of the Program.

The Cooperative Program in Elementary Education was created as a service project of the Association at Memphis, Tennessee, December 1, 1952, and placed under the sponsorship of the Commission on Research and Service which during 1948-51 had conducted the Cooperative Study in Elementary Education. The 1952 action of the Association provided for the affiliation of elementary schools with the Association through membership in the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education. At its 1958 Annual Meeting in Louisville, Kentucky, the Association authorized the Cooperative Program to accredit elementary schools and systems of elementary schools according to standards developed by the Program. Elementary schools were accredited by the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education for the first time at the 1960 Annual Meeting of the Association in Memphis, Tennessee.

The constitution adopted by the Association in Miami Beach, December 7, 1961, created the Committee on Elementary Education as a standing committee of the Association, and placed the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education under its jurisdiction. The first election of members of the Committee was held at the 1962 Annual Meeting of the Association in Dallas, Texas.

Responsibility for the Cooperative Program, formerly held by its Central Coordinating Committee and the Commission on Research and Service, was assumed by the Committee on Elementary Education at its organizational meeting, March 22-23, 1963, Atlanta, Georgia. Elementary schools were accredited by the Committee on Elementary Education for the first time at the 1963 Annual Meeting of the Association, Memphis, Tennessee. The membership of the Committee appeared annually between 1962 and 1965, inclusive, in the first section of those issues of the Proceedings.

At the 1963 Annual Meeting, the Committee on Elementary Education approved a formal request to be submitted through the Association's Committee on Policies and Functions that a Commission on Elementary Schools be established. The request was approved by: (1) the Committee on Policies and Functions on May 19, 1964; and (2) the Association's Board of Trustees on December 1, 1964. At the Association's business meeting on December 3, 1964 the necessary changes in By-Laws were presented with the understanding that final action would be taken at the next annual meeting of the Association. Favorable action by the Association on December 1, 1965 established the Commission. During 1966, elementary school activities remained under the direction of the Committee on Elementary Education.

A complete list of the annual meetings and officers of the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education and the Committee on Elementary Education appeared on page 258 of the 1965 annual Proceedings. Officers, members, and major committees of the Commission are listed here.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION ON ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

PRESIDENT PRESSLY AND DELEGATES TO THE ANNUAL MEETING:

This first full year of operation as a Commission has been exciting and fruitful. Membership has continued to grow. Plans for the internal structure of the Commission were implemented. The Second Southwide Conference on Elementary Education was tremendously successful. Plans for improving and extending services were projected. And finally, the sessions of the Commission at this annual meeting have been well attended and productive.

Membership. Enrollment data indicate that the Cooperative Program in Elementary Education is attracting the attention of more and more people. These data show a total of 5,213 schools in the Cooperative Program, 1,446 being accredited schools and 3,767 being affiliated. These numbers represent an increase of 237 accredited schools and 166 affiliated schools. From the financial standpoint, we are within a few hundred dollars of reaching our estimated income for this year.

Functionings of the Commission. The Commission has operated smoothly during this first year. At the organizational meeting last year in Miami, a plan for the internal structure of the Commission was adopted and the initial implementation began with the selection of officers, an Executive Council, and three standing committees: Central Reviewing Committee, Committee on Programs of School Improvement, and Committee on Standards. The major responsibility for moving the program along has rested with the Executive Council which consists of the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Commission, the chairman of the three standing committees, and two members of the Commission elected at large by the Commission members. Since last December, it was necessary for this Executive Council to meet four times prior to this annual meeting in Dallas, and it was necessary for the Central Reviewing Committee to meet twice during the same interval.

The functioning of the Commission necessitated the appointment of many special groups to attend to the details of operating and improving the Cooperative Program. Among the many committees that had active assignments during the year were: Committee on Supporting Services for the Elementary Teacher, Program Planning Committee for the Asheville Conference, Conference Evaluation Committee for the Asheville Conference, Program Planning Committee for the 1968 Myrtle Beach Conference, Program Planning Committee for the 1967 Annual Meeting in Dallas, Committee on Audit, Committee on Pre-First Grade Education, Appeals Committee, Necrology Committee, and a Nominating Committee. In addition, three persons were appointed to serve on a Liaison Committee with three secondary school representatives in dealing with the problems of the unit school (schools with both elementary and secondary grades.)

The Second Southwide Conference on Elementary Education. On July 19-22, 1967, the Second Southwide Conference on Elementary Education was held at the Grove Park Inn, Asheville, North Carolina. The Conference theme, "Evaluating School Improvement Programs: Focus on Children," reflected the concern of the leadership for strengthening the school improvement activities of the Cooperative Program. Featured speakers at the general sessions included Dr. Robert S. Fleming, Associate Superintendent, New Jersey State Department of Education; Dr. Walter Waetjen, University of Maryland; Dr. Henry I. Willett, Superintendent of the Richmond (Virginia) City Schools; Dr. Helen Robinson, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York; and Dr. William L. Pressly, the Association's president.

In addition to the general sessions, the program provided for demonstrations, laboratory sessions, and clinics. The attendance figure reached the 378 mark, almost twice that of the Biloxi Conference.

Improving and Extending Services. The focus of the many activities of the Commission and its committees was on improving and extending services. Immediate and long range plans have been made to improve standards, to perfect procedures, to produce materials needed in the operation of the program, to extend services at the state and regional levels, to extend coverage to encourage areas not reached or not adequately reached by the present program, and to train leadership personnel for the many responsibilities demanded by the Cooperative Program.

Two developments were especially significant. One was the use of a small U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare grant to develop aids of various kinds for use in training leadership for self-evaluation programs. The other was the joint venture in cooperation with the other Commissions and the Board of Trustees relative to the implementation of the recommendations of the Ad Hoc Committee for bringing additional services to the member institutions.

The Annual Meeting in Dallas, Texas. This annual meeting has featured commission meetings, delegate assemblies, general sessions, and committee meetings.

At the meeting of the Commission on Monday morning, an address by Dr. Harris Dean, Past President of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, and Vice President for Academic Affairs, University of South Florida, preceded the business session. In his address, Dr. Dean reviewed the details of the report of the Ad Hoc Committee and challenged the Commission members to give first priority to such things as: making the Commission operate smoothly, simplifying procedures, improving services, extending service to the pre-first grade level, improving the accrediting process, and extending educational opportunities to all children. Following his address, the various committees reported, officers were elected, and nominees for Commission membership, Board of Trustees, and Association Committees were designated.

At the business meeting of the Elementary School Delegate Assembly on Monday afternoon, the chairman reported for the Commission and the delegates approved the nominees, re-accredited 1,209 schools, dropped 16, and accredited 237 new schools. A reception for the newly accredited schools followed.

General sessions of the Delegate Assembly were devoted to Early Childhood Education. Featured speakers included Dr. Keith Osborn, Chairman of Community Affairs, The Merrill-Palmer Institute, Detroit, Michigan and Professor, Wayne State University, Detroit; Dr. Rodney Tillman, Professor and Chairman, Department of Elementary Education, Memphis State University, Memphis, Tennessee; and Dr. Milly Cowles, Professor of Education, University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina.

Group meetings, consultation centers, and tours completed the program for elementary representatives.

POLICIES, PRINCIPLES AND STANDARDS OF ACCREDITATION FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

The value of accreditation depends largely on the degree to which the certifying agency is accepted by the public and the profession as a competent, professional organization. Confidence in an accrediting agency depends ultimately on the quality of its standards and the manner in which they are developed, administered, and revised.

PART ONE

POLICIES

Regional policies regarding accreditation serve to interpret and strengthen standards and procedures. Policies also give direction to the administration of such standards and procedures. Regional policies are as follows:

1. Each school or system seeking initial and continuing accreditation shall follow procedures as outlined in the latest edition of A Guide to the Evaluation and Accreditation of Elementary Schools.
2. In order for an elementary school to be accredited on an individual school basis, it must have a minimum of seven teachers, exclusive of the principal.
3. In cases where individual schools apply for accreditation, evidence shall be presented to the visiting committee that other schools in the same administrative unit are not handicapped in achieving their purposes as a result of accreditation of these individual schools.
4. When the administration of a school system seeks the accreditation of its elementary schools on a system-wide basis, each such school within the system shall meet all standards; however, a school with less than seven teachers in a system seeking accreditation shall be considered as meeting standards 5 and 6 under Personnel, provided it is furnished adequate supervisory leadership and library services by the system's central office.

5. When accreditation is sought either by an individual school or a system, provisions shall be made for the following:
  - a. Adequate supervisory assistance for the coordination of the program of school improvement
  - b. Resource materials needed for an effective program of school improvement
  - c. Consultative help needed for an effective program of school improvement
  - d. Time for professional study and school improvement which is in addition to and does not infringe upon a minimum of 175 days of classroom instruction
  - e. Representatives to participate in state and regional undertakings. (Recommendation: budgetary support for participation in state and regional undertakings should be provided.)
6. Well-planned experimentation which calls for variance from standards shall be permitted, provided plans for such experimentation have been approved in advance on an annual basis by the State Elementary Committee for schools seeking continuing accreditation and after thorough study for schools seeking initial accreditation.

7. The State Elementary Committee shall recommend, when appropriate, that a school or system be "advised," "warned," or "dropped" for failure to meet standards. If such a recommendation is to be made, it shall be the responsibility of the chairman of the State Elementary Committee to notify the chief administrator of the school or system in writing, at least fifteen days in advance of the Association's annual meeting and of the exact nature of the recommendation that is to be made.
8. Violation of standards 1 and 3 under Personnel and standard 5 under Coordination shall be considered sufficient cause for the recommendation that a school or system be "dropped" immediately. Violation of other standards shall constitute cause for the State Elementary Committee to recommend that a school or system be advised, warned, or dropped. After having been "dropped," schools seeking reinstatement shall follow the same procedures as schools seeking initial accreditation.
9. Provision shall be made at the regional level for appeal of an unfavorable decision or recommendation by the State Elementary Committee. A notice of intent to appeal shall be mailed at least ten days prior to beginning of the annual meeting to the Executive Secretary, Commission on Elementary Schools, Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.
10. The Central Reviewing Committee of the Commission shall review the recommendations of State Elementary Committees and submit its recommendations to the Commission for approval. Final action on accreditation shall be by the Elementary School Delegate Assembly. The Executive Secretary
