WIKIMEDIANS IN THAILAND

Taweetham, a professor at Mahidol University and active Wikipedian teaching how to edit Wikipedia

To build a stronger community, Wikimedians in Thailand organised two meetups in March 2016 at Mahidol University International College, Thailand. The events served to promote and encourage university students into editing Wikipedia. Participants were asked to complete the Wikipedia Adventure and contribute to existing articles or write new articles to win rewards postcards, calendars and t-

Pada bulan September 2014, komunitas Wikipedia bahasa Sunda mengadakan sebuah lomba menyunting yang dinamai dengan Wiki Sabanda. ["Wiki Sabanda"] merupakan kependekan dari frasa "Wikipedia Raksa Basa Sunda", yang bermakna memelihara bahasa Sunda. Memelihara bahasa Sunda yang dilakukan oleh komunitas ini dilakukan secara kolaborasi dengan pengguna Wikipedia lainnya. Wikipedia Bahasa Sunda memiliki jumlah penyunting aktif yang sedikit dan terus menurun angkanya. Konsep lomba ini adalah permainan berjenjang, di mana ketika

<http://whgi.wmflabs.org/gender-by-language.html#bokeh-alltime-plot>

In 2016, I used the first three of the mentioned strategies with 40 Wikipedia language editions (the first 30 in number of articles and 10 to increase diversity).

CCC articles are about a quarter of each Wikipedia language edition.

In 2018, I calculated the percentages for Asian and Pacific languages:
These are some of the latest (approximate) results for few languages:

Māori (13%), Fiji Hindi (15%), Vietnamese (16%), Thai (18%),
Malayam (20%), Nepali (19%), Nepal Bhasa (19%), Tagalog (25%),
Korean (32%), Japanese (40%).

60% of this content is not shared across languages.

I am creating a cartography to see the shared content: the culture gap.

The project aims at proposing strategic content across languages to fill this gap.
