

Need Data About Your Operation? We've Got You Covered.

As a business aviation professional you already know how many hours your fleet is flying but do you know how you compare to similar operators and the broader industry? With ClearView's interactive benchmarking you can answer those questions as you compare your fleet to similar sized fleets, operators of common aircraft types or company's in the same region to see how your utilization compares to the industry trends.

From there you can utilize ClearView's dynamic flight mapping to drill into key industry trends in North America and around the globe. Review top markets to identify the popular routes and aircraft types on those routes. Use our global operations dashboard to stay ahead of industry trends by alerting you of key changes in real time and so much more.

ClearView was designed as a global flight data analysis platform to help business aviation operators understand market dynamics, benchmark your fleet against the industry, and ultimately grow market share. Our team is available to support your data analysis needs. Contact our industry experts today!
